A RECORD HOLDER—Clint W. Shaw, 32, Victoria, B.C., Canada, roller skated through Circleville Saturday on his way to Los Angeles, Calif., from Battery Park in Lower Manhattan. He began his journey May 4. Shaw estimates the length of his trip to be 3,100 miles and he hopes to make it in 56 days, an average of 7½ miles per hour. Shaw in 1967 made the longest reported skate from Victoria, B. C. to St. John's, N. F., a distance of 4,900 miles on the TransCanadian Highway via Montreal. This feat is recorded in the "Guinness Book of World Records". While in Los Angeles he hopes to break the world record for marathon skating in a rink. The record now stands at six days three hours. Shaw's venture is sponsored by Pepsi Cola.

Aussie Vote Seen Rebuff For Whitlam

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam's Labor government appeared today to have won reelection, but newspapers and opposition politicians said the Laborites' narrow victory margin was a warning from the voters.

The latest returns showed Sunday that Labor had won 64 seats in Saturday's race for the 127-member House of Representatives, while Bill Snedden's Liberal-Country party coalition had 57. Six seats were undecided. The old House had 125 seats, 67 held by Labor.

Most analysts predicted the final results—which may not be known for several days—will give Labor a majority of one to three seats. The leader of the majority party or coalition in the House becomes prime minister and forms the government. In the tight race for the Senate, the experts predicted Labor may take from 29 to 31 of the 60 seats. It held 26 in the old Senate.

Snedden, 47, had forged his campaign on what he saw as voter discontent over the country's 14 per cent inflation rate. He refused to concede the election by Sunday night, although he said Labor appeared to be winning a majority.

Air Base Renamed For Rickenbacker

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rickenbacker Air Force base was named Saturday for America's top World War I ace, Columbus native Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

Base officials estimated 45,000 persons attended the ceremonies at the former Lockbourne Air Force Base. Entertainer Arthur Godfrey, a friend of Rickenbacker, praised "Rick" as a life-long advocate of American air strength.

Lottery Ticket Measure Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A House-passed bill to make sure Ohio's tavern and bar operators can sell state lottery tickets come up for a vote Tuesday in the Ohio Senate.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, sponsor of the constitutional amendment that lifted the ban against lotteries and a principle figure in its implementation, said "I don't expect any problem with the bill in the Senate."

If it passes and is approved by Gov. John J. Gilligan as expected, bar and tavern owners, as well as grocers who sell beer and wine, will be among an estimated 10,000 Ohio business owners selling 50-cent lottery tickets starting in mid-August.

They will be paid five per cent, or 2½ cents for each ticket they sell, under agent licensing regulations adopted by the newly created State Lottery Commission.

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, introduced the pending measure as a result of an existing regulation of the State Liquor Control Commission. It prohibits liquor permit holders from promoting a game of chance.

Mottl said the regulation is "nebulous," and may or may not apply to the lottery. But he said the bill would prevail in any case, and that he believes the liquor department would like to have the matter clarified.

The same problem had to be worked out in some of the other states which adopted a lottery, the senator said.

The Cuyahoga County lawmaker said he does not expect opposition in the Senate based on assertions that sale of tickets to drinking patrons is conducive to "having them blow their weekly pay checks."

That argument was presented forcefully

when the bill was debated in the House last Feb. 26, and it finally passed on a second roll call SB43.

Mottl said he is prepared to offer the Senate statistics from other states which show that this concern is not well-founded.

Among other things, Mottl said the statistics show that supermarkets are the leading sellers of lottery tickets with liquor spots coming in second. "This puts down the argument that wholesale numbers of people are blowing their pay checks on the lottery," he said.

Mideast Peace Hammered Out

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Details of a general agreement to separate Israeli and Syrian forces on the Golan Heights began trickling out today as Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived for discussions with Syrian leaders to overcome the few remaining obstacles.

A senior American official said a buffer zone separating the two armies will vary in depth from less than half a mile to a little over one mile.

According to this official, Israel has agreed to permit Syrian policemen to re-enter towns and villages within the demilitarized zone along with Syrian civilians.

Newsman also were told on the one-hour flight from Jerusalem that verification of the thinning out of armor immediately behind the disengagement lines would not cause a problem because the distances involved are not great.

Now in the 22nd day of his marathon peace mission, Kissinger brought to Damascus Israel's approval of his proposals to separate the opposing forces, which the Israeli negotiating team gave Sunday.

The Syrians accepted the plan Saturday, making final agreement by week's end appear a certainty.

With agreement on the troublesome question of a separation line, the focus of negotiations now is expected to shift toward such problems as the composition of a United Nations contingent to man a buffer zone between the opposing forces, the thinning out of firepower and an exchange of war prisoners.

Kissinger said he expected to remain in the Middle East at least until Friday, shuttling almost daily between the two countries. He scheduled his eighth session today with Syrian President Hafez Assad and Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam in Damascus.

He returns to Jerusalem in the evening to meet with Premier Golda Meir and other Israeli leaders.

"You can assume this will be the pattern" over the next few days, said Robert Anderson, a State Department spokesman.

Informed sources said the Kissinger compromise centered on U.N. control of the peak of Mt. Hermon, with Israeli and Syrian units maintaining positions along the slopes. It also was said to include the return of the city of Quneitra to Syrian civilian authority and Israeli withdrawal from three abandoned Arab villages in the Quneitra area, which is just behind the cease-fire lines drawn after the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

The sources said that under the plan, the United States would help guard against violations by inspecting Israeli and Syrian troop movements and equipment in the contested region.

Kissinger discussed the disengagement details and related problems with Mrs. Meir and other members of the Israeli negotiating team for three hours Sunday. The cabinet met earlier.

The usually well-informed Israeli newspaper Haaretz said Israel's military leaders were insisting that artillery be limited to medium-range guns on either side of the proposed buffer zone. The paper said this would prevent Jewish settlements from being shelled over the heads of U.N. troops.

FRANKLIN, Ohio (AP) — Independent truckers meeting near Franklin voted overwhelmingly Sunday to stay on the roads.

The truckers rejected a proposal for a second nationwide truck strike, with about two-thirds of the 500 present voting against the strike.

Spokesmen for the truckers cited various reasons for the vote, including stabilization of fuel prices and the timing of the proposed shutdown.

Truckers said the freight business is in a slow period now, and large trucking companies could pick up the slack from the shutdown.

Others said diesel fuel prices have stabilized in recent weeks.

A few mentioned the possibility of becoming pawns in a power struggle between Mike Parkhurst, editor of Overdrive magazine and chief proponent of the strike, and Bill Hill of the Fraternal Association of Steelhaulers.

Carl Bray, an Ohio trucking leader, attributed the defeat of the strike vote to dissension among truckers, including the dispute between Hill and Parkhurst.

One of the truckers present, who favored the strike, said things haven't improved since the last national shutdown early this year.

"The six per cent surcharge they gave us was eaten up by fuel increases before it went into effect," said the trucker, who refused to identify himself.

"I run in 38 states," he said. "Fifteen months ago, I was paying 32 cents a gallon for fuel. When we went out (on strike) this year, I was paying 42 to 48 cents a gallon."

"Now, it's 52 to 57 cents," he said. He added, however, that he would abide by the vote.

Parkhurst, who attended the meeting, said he wasn't sure the vote reflected the true sentiment of independent drivers.

"We don't know how many voting here were owner-operators and how many were company drivers," he said. "There are ways to load up meetings, although I'm not saying it happened here."

The Ohio vote was being watched closely in other states because of its possible impact on shutdowns there. Ohio was a focal point in the earlier shutdown, and some felt a vote against the strike might deal a fatal blow to any national shutdown.

In at least two other states—Indiana and New York—truckers called local news media and claimed the Ohio truckers had approved the shutdown.

East Liverpool Water Short

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Schools suspended classes and at least one industry ceased operations today because of a water shortage in this Ohio River city.

The problem began Friday night when the water intake pier in the river became clogged and no more water could be pumped into the city's reservoirs.

Water Supt. Rodney Stull said the three reservoirs were in danger of running dry before the intake could be cleared. He said divers would be sent down to try to remove the debris.

Meanwhile, Mayor Norman Bucher urged the city's more than 22,000 residents to conserve water.

Hall China Pottery, one of the city's biggest industries, closed today and classes were suspended at the nine public and Catholic schools in the city.

Stull said the city's largest reservoir, which normally holds about five million gallons of water, was down to about half a million gallons and the water supply also was down in the other reservoirs.

Patty Hearst Considered 'Armed, Dangerous'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst, the soft-spoken coed who screamed "let me go" as she was violently kidnaped 3½ months ago, was hunted today by hundreds of lawmen as an "armed and extremely dangerous" member of the terrorist group which abducted her.

With six of Miss Hearst's alleged captors dead after a series of weekend developments in which the case began to break open, the FBI led a blitzing search in this city today for the remnants of the nearly decimated Symbionese Liberation Army, and for Miss Hearst.

The FBI said Sunday night it would charge Miss Hearst as the woman who pumped automatic rifle fire into a sporting goods store on Thursday, the incident that triggered the army of lawmen into action as they began to close in on the SLA.

The FBI said it believes Miss Hearst, who 106 days ago was pursuing her art studies and quietly planning a summer wedding, to be part of what is left of her captors.

"Apparently she has joined forces with the SLA," William A. Sullivan, assistant director of the Los Angeles FBI office, said of the 20-year-old newspaper heiress Sunday night. He added:

"She will be given the opportunity to surrender. If she opens fire on FBI agents or police, the fire will be returned."

Police said early today all units were seeking a young white woman and two black men "considered armed and dangerous and may be suspected SLA members" who tried to offer "several hundred dollars" to a landlady if she would give them a room Sunday night.

The woman was described as 18 to 20, blonde hair, blue eyes, with a sawed-off shotgun on a sling concealed under her coat. Miss Hearst has brown hair and brown eyes. The men were described as in their 20s, one 6-foot-3 and the other 5-foot-4.

Police said when the landlady refused to rent the room, she was slashed at with a knife. Her clothing was cut but she was unharmed. Her assailants reportedly fled in a red and black sedan.

Named in a warrant charging federal firearms violations were Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris, a husband and wife in their late 20s. The Harrises are white.

If there was any solid SLA connection with the two black men sought early today, police did not give it.

Six persons, including acknowledged SLA leader Cinque, are dead, victims of a Friday night shootout with an estimated 500 law officers that lasted more than an hour before their hideout house burned. When the charred remains of all six were finally identified by Sunday afternoon, the dead included what was believed to be all the top leaders of the SLA, which now appears not to have numbered more than a dozen.

In tape recordings issued as the country's first political kidnapping unfolded, Miss Hearst pledged her allegiance to the SLA, renounced her family, ridiculed her fiancé and repeated the violent SLA goals of revolution on behalf of the people. But her family always said it believed the statements were coerced. Most authorities appeared to believe that, until this weekend.

Formal complaints were to be filed today against Miss Hearst and the Harrises, who Sullivan said he believes were still in Southern California. A youth who identified Miss Hearst for the FBI said she told him she raked a sporting goods store with rifle fire as she and the Harrises made their getaway after a bungled attempt to shoplift a pair of 49-cent socks.

Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father, was "taking it pretty badly" and was not expected to have any comment until later today, said a spokesman at the family home in Hillsborough, Calif. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, had already endured tense waits while authorities determined if any of four dead women in a fire-gutted house was his daughter.

First there was a wait of 20 hours until the charred bodies of the first three women found in the rubble of the house after the Friday shoot out were identified. Then there was a wait of about three hours after a body of another white woman was found Sunday morning.

The dead included Donald David DeFreeze, 30, the SLA leader known as Cinque; Nancy Ling Perry, 26, the group's theoretician; and LA members Patricia "Mizmoon" Soltysik, 24; Camilla Hall, 29; Angela Atwood, 25, and William Wolfe, 23.

Exploded cartridge belts were found around the disfigured bodies of Miss Soltysik, Miss Perry and Miss Hall. The county coroner said Miss Hall died of gunshot wounds in the head, as did DeFreeze. He said tests were being conducted to find out if any of the victims had committed suicide as their hideout crumbled in flames Friday.

Police also were still seeking Thero Wheeler, an escaped convict who knew DeFreeze in prison and who was identified in published reports as one of the persons who dragged Miss Hearst from her Berkeley apartment on Feb. 4. Wheeler's girl friend said recently that he has broken with the group.

Meanwhile, authorities released Christine Johnson, 35, who ran from the besieged house during the Friday gun battle, and had been booked for investigation of harboring criminals. The charges were dropped.

Her 18-year-old son, James, told the Los Angeles Times he had talked with a woman he identified as Miss Hearst in the house less than 24 hours before the holocaust that killed the others.

James said the woman affirmed her allegiance to the SLA and that she told him: "They'll have to kill me before I go back, I'm not going back there."

He said the woman left the house Thursday night with two black men who said "they were just getting away from the heat."

Early today lawmen flocked back to the neighborhood of the Friday shootout after receiving a report that two black men and a white woman had offered a woman "several hundred dollars" to allow them to rent a room. They said the woman refused and that before fleeing at least one of the persons tried to slash her with a knife, but did not injure her.

They said it was "possibly connected" with the SLA.

The FBI's informant, Tom Dean Mathews, 18, said a woman he identified as Miss Hearst and two other persons—the Harrises—held him for more than 12 hours Friday after commandeering his van truck in a getaway from the sporting goods store shooting. He said the woman called herself Tania and said she was a willing participant in the April 15 bank holdup in San Francisco which netted more than $10,000.

Sullivan said information about Miss Hearst's participation in that bank robbery would be presented to a grand jury in San Francisco today.

He also disclosed that a second man, Frank Richard Sutter, was abducted after Matthews was released about 6:30 a.m. Friday. The FBI agent said Sutter was kidnapped when Miss Hearst and the Harrises allegedly commandeered his Lincoln Continental.

He was released about noon Friday in the Griffith Park area north of downtown Los Angeles, and he later found his car nearby. Sullivan said Sutter identified "one or more of the trio."

It was the sporting goods store shooting Thursday that alerted police that SLA members were in Los Angeles, sparking a manhunt that led to a house in predominantly black southcentral Los Angeles where Friday's fierce gun battle and fire took place.

Aussie Vote Seen Rebuff For Whitlam

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam's Labor government appeared today to have won reelection, but newspapers and opposition politicians said the Laborites' narrow victory margin was a warning from the voters.

The latest returns showed Sunday that Labor had won 64 seats in Saturday's race for the 127-member House of Representatives, while Bill Snedden's Liberal-Country party coalition had 57. Six seats were undecided. The old House had 125 seats, 67 held by Labor.

Most analysts predicted the final results—which may not be known for several days—will give Labor a majority of one to three seats. The leader of the majority party or coalition in the House becomes prime minister and forms the government.

In the tight race for the Senate, the experts predicted Labor may take from 29 to 31 of the 60 seats. It held 26 in the old Senate. Snedden, 47, had forged his campaign on what he saw as voter discontent over the country's 14 per cent inflation rate. He refused to concede the election by Sunday night, although he said Labor appeared to be winning a majority.

Lottery Ticket Measure Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A House-passed bill to make sure Ohio's tavern and bar operators can sell state lottery tickets came up for a vote Tuesday in the Ohio Senate.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, sponsor of the constitutional amendment that lifted the ban against lotteries and a principle figure in its implementation, said "I don't expect any problem with the bill in the Senate."

If it passes and is approved by Gov. John J. Gilligan as expected, bar and tavern owners, as well as grocers who sell beer and wine, will be among an estimated 10,000 Ohio business owners selling 50-cent lottery tickets starting in mid-August.

They will be paid five per cent, or 2½ cents for each ticket they sell, under agent licensing regulations adopted by the newly created State Lottery Commission.

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, introduced the pending measure as a result of an existing regulation of the State Liquor Control Commission. It prohibits liquor permit holders from promoting a game of chance.

Mottl said the regulation is "nebulous," and may or may not apply to the lottery. But he said the bill would prevail in any case, and that he believes the liquor department would like to have the matter clarified.

The same problem had to be worked out in some of the other states which adopted a lottery, the senator said.

That argument was presented forcefully when the bill was debated in the House last Feb. 26, and it finally passed on a second roll call SB43. Mottl said he is prepared to offer the Senate statistics from other states which show that this concern is not well-founded.

Among other things, Mottl said the statistics show that supermarkets are the leading sellers of lottery tickets with liquor spots coming in second. "This puts down the argument that wholesale numbers of people are blowing their pay checks on the lottery," he said.

But her family always said it believed the statements were coerced. Most authorities appeared to believe that, until this weekend.

Formal complaints were to be filed today against Miss Hearst and the Harrises, who Sullivan said he believed were still in Southern California. A youth who identified Miss Hearst for the FBI said she told him she raked a sporting goods store with rifle fire as she and the Harrises made their getaway after a bungled attempt to shoplift a pair of 49-cent socks.

Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father, was "taking it pretty badly" and was not expected to have any comment until later today, said a spokesman at the family home in Hillsborough, Calif. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, had already endured tense waits while authorities determined if any of four dead women in a fire-gutted house was his daughter.

First there was a wait of 20 hours until the charred bodies of the first three women found in the rubble of the house after the Friday shoot out were identified. Then there was a wait of about three hours after a body of another white woman was found Sunday morning.

The dead included Donald David DeFreeze, 30, the SLA leader known as Cinque; Nancy Ling Perry, 26, the group's theoretician; and LA members Patricia "Mizmoon" Soltysik, 24; Camilla Hall, 29; Angela Atwood, 25; and William Wolfe, 23.

Exploded cartridge belts were found around the disfigured bodies of Miss Soltysik, Miss Perry and Miss Hall. The county coroner said Miss Hall died of gunshot wounds in the head, as did DeFreeze. He said tests were being conducted to find out if any of the victims had committed suicide as their hideout crumbled in flames Friday.

Police also were still seeking Thero Wheeler, an escaped convict who knew DeFreeze in prison and who was identified in published reports as one of the persons who dragged Miss Hearst from her Berkeley apartment on Feb. 4. Wheeler's girl friend said recently that he has broken with the group.

Meanwhile, authorities released Christine Johnson, 35, who ran from the besieged house during the Friday gun battle, and had been booked for investigation of harboring criminals. The charges were dropped.

Her 18-year-old son, James, told the Los Angeles Times he had talked with a woman he identified as Miss Hearst in the house less than 24 hours before the holocaust that killed the others.

James said the woman affirmed her allegiance to the SLA and that she told him: "They'll have to kill me before I go back, I'm not going back there."

He said the woman left the house Thursday night with two black men who said "they were just getting away from the heat."

Early today lawmen flocked back to the neighborhood of the Friday shootout after receiving a report that two black men and a white woman had offered a woman "several hundred dollars" to allow them to rent a room. They said the woman refused and that before fleeing at least one of the persons tried to slash her with a knife, but did not injure her.

They said it was "possibly connected" with the SLA.

The FBI's informant, Tom Dean Mathews, 18, said a woman he identified as Miss Hearst and two other persons—the Harrises—held him for more than 12 hours Friday after commandeering his van truck in a getaway from the sporting goods store shooting. He said the woman called herself Tania and said she was a willing participant in the April 15 bank holdup in San Francisco which netted more than $10,000.

Sullivan said information about Miss Hearst's participation in that bank robbery would be presented to a grand jury in San Francisco today.

He also disclosed that a second man, Frank Richard Sutter, was abducted after Matthews was released about 6:30 a.m. Friday. The FBI agent said Sutter was kidnapped when Miss Hearst and the Harrises allegedly commandeered his Lincoln Continental.

He was released about noon Friday in the Griffith Park area north of downtown Los Angeles, and he later found his car nearby. Sullivan said Sutter identified "one or more of the trio."

It was the sporting goods store shooting Thursday that alerted police that SLA members were in Los Angeles, sparking a manhunt that led to a house in predominantly black southcentral Los Angeles where Friday's fierce gun battle and fire took place.

Jobless Vet Wants Leg Amputated

JUPITER, Fla. (AP) — A young Vietnam veteran who seeks a leg amputation that doctors won't give him is broke and jobless and considering going to jail so his family can get welfare payments.

Don Dagenhart, 22, says constant pain from a knee injury incurred in a Navy football game four years ago makes it impossible for him to hold a job. He wants an artificial limb, but a Veteran's Administration panel of three doctors says he should keep his leg.

Broke and jobless, Dagenhart faces eviction from his apartment. His telephone has been disconnected and even though his VA disability payments have been raised to $77 a month he has been forced to sell furniture to get money to support his wife Anne and their two-year-old son Craig.

"We got $10 for the baby's crib," says Mrs. Dagenhart, who cannot work because she suffers from phlebitis, an inflammation of the veins. "We're trying to hang on to the high chair so Craig will have a place to eat, but I don't know how long we can."

State welfare offers only token payment because Dagenhart is a veteran. Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., has been asked to get him a 100 per cent disability allowance, but that will take time.

"We've been told to pay the back rent or get out," Dagenhart says. "The landlord wants money and I can't blame him."

He says if the landlord evicts him, "then I'll just have to do something to get thrown in jail. Then the welfare people will have to do something to help my wife and son. That's the important thing right now."

Dagenhart's disability payments were increased from $49 a month to $570 a month a year ago when he was recovering from two exploratory operations. But they were reduced to $49 again six months later.

He had five knee operations before his discharge in 1971, and early this year, the VA medical panel in Miami told Dagenhart he either could have the knee fused and the nerves killed; keep the knee and wear a leg brace, or amputate the leg and get an artificial one.

But after a re-examination in April, the panel eliminated amputation as an alternative and advised that he wear a leg brace.

Dr. Donald Peerson, who has operated on Dagenhart's leg, says, "I don't think he fully realizes the full implications of an above-the-knee amputation. The full leg brace would help him and I think, with careful planning, something could be done to repair the knee."

To that Dagenhart responds: "I want this over with. I've already had seven operations and the knee is just as bad off as when it was crushed. I've made up my mind I want it cut off."

Arrest Two In Burglary Of Dr. Hosler's Office

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff arrested two men involved in the May 16 break-in and theft of Dr. R. S. Hosler's office, Ashville.

John W. Ralston, 24, Route 2, Ashville and Michael Alan Johnson, 23, Route 1, Laurelville, both admitted to the charges when taken into custody Friday by Radcliff.

Hosler's office was entered 2:30 a.m. Thursday, with Ralston and Johnson taking numerous drugs.

The arrests clear a Dec. 24, 1973 burglary of Dr. Hosler's office also entered by Ralston and Johnson.

Ralston's arrest also clears the break-in of a doctor's office in Ross County and the Dec. 24, 1973 break-in of an animal clinic in Ross County, where a cash register was taken. The cash register was later found in a creek along the Hayesville-Adelphi Road.

The April 22 break-in and theft of $79 at the Ashville Bar and Grill was also cleared by Ralston's arrest.

They are to appear in Municipal Court today.

Brownouts Avoidable, Firms Claim

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Americans won't have to swelter through the summer to avoid power cutbacks or brownouts, but utility officials say people will have to use electricity wisely if they want to prevent problems.

An Associated Press survey showed that electric companies expect to have enough power to satisfy summer demands, barring unforeseen breakdowns or abnormally hot weather.

They urge conservation, however, and say high electricity prices, caused by higher fuel costs, may help cut usage.

Robert Rives, a spokesman for the Kansas Gas & Electric Co., said, "We have adequate facilities and fuel to take care of people's needs, but we think they should use it wisely."

Rives and others suggested that people set their thermostats at 78 degrees—slightly above usual—just the way they set the thermostats slightly below normal during the winter.

Several utilities said they had extra reserve capacity. A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison of Chicago said, "Our reserve will be 16 per cent. The reserve normally is 14 per cent."

He said the extra capacity is the result of a "slowdown in electrical growth. In past years there has been an electrical growth of 5 or 6 per cent a year, but so far this year, it's not growing at all."

A spokesman for the Public Service Co. of Colorado said the power situation looked good for summer.

So did Ernie Quickel, a spokesman for the Georgia Power Co.

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York reported two more extra generating units this year than last. But the company was forced to make a voltage cutback last Friday when the temperature hit 92 degrees. Some equipment was out of service because of repairs and maintenance by company workmen trying to get things ready for summer.

Spokesmen for the New England Power Pool said the only chance of brownouts this summer would be if the weather turned hot at the same time plants were shut down for maintenance.

Officials said it would cost about $19 more to air condition one room in Massachusetts this summer than it did last year, but they said they didn't know whether the cost increase would be enough to cut consumption.

Commissioners Fund Senior Citizen Plans

To "promote the general well-being of the county's older citizens," the Pickaway County Commissioners voted unanimously Monday to appropriate $4200 to the Senior Center.

Payment of the money will be made quarterly, effective for last month.

The money will come from the unanticipated emergency account of the general fund.

Petition filed May 16 to annex two tracts of land with a total of about 22½ acres into the village of Ashville was received by the commissioners who deferred action pending clarification of the document.

The land is bounded by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad tracks on the west, the north corporation line or Station St. on the south, and the N and W Railroad tracks on the east.

Commissioners were confused by the petition in morning session Monday. One tract, about .75 acres, is apparently owned by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Miller. The remainder is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Kreuzer.

The petition appears to be invalid as only the Kreuzers' have signed. A majority is required.

Ashville Village council indicated at its monthly meeting that it would accept the annexation if approved by the commissioners.

The restrooms in Memorial Hall will get a face lift after commissioners awarded a contract for work to George A. Ramey and Sons.

The $1244.55 contract estimate calls for new paint, new floors, new ceiling, repair of the windows and hallway, and resetting the toilets.

Money will come from the Federal Revenue Sharing fund.

An additional two cents a mile will be given County workers who use their own cars for official business.

Due to the increased cost of fuel, commissioners voted to raise the mileage allotment from 10 cents to 12 cents a mile.

The increase will be effective June 1. Commissioners also spent $621 of revenue sharing money for an IBM typewriter for the Pickaway County Juvenile Court.

Mini Bike Accident Injures Girl

Fourteen-year-old Debbie Levisay, Columbus, was treated and released at Children's Hospital for lacerations and contusions to arms and chin received in a mini-bike accident, 8:42 p.m. Sunday.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Danny Dewey, Miss Levisay was riding the bike on Clark Drive in the Clark Lakes Addition, which is a gravel road coming onto Valley Drive, which is asphalt surface.

Jobless Vet Wants Leg Amputated

JUPITER, Fla. (AP) — A young Vietnam veteran who seeks a leg amputation that doctors won't give him is broke and jobless and considering going to jail so his family can get welfare payments.

Don Dagenhart, 22, says constant pain from a knee injury incurred in a Navy football game four years ago makes it impossible for him to hold a job. He wants an artificial limb, but a Veteran's Administration panel of three doctors says he should keep his leg.

Broke and jobless, Dagenhart faces eviction from his apartment. His telephone has been disconnected and even though his VA disability payments have been raised to $77 a month he has been forced to sell furniture to get money to support his wife Anne and their two-year-old son Craig. "We got $10 for the baby's crib," says Mrs. Dagenhart, who cannot work because she suffers from phlebitis, an inflammation of the veins. "We're trying to hang on to the high chair so Craig will have a place to eat, but I don't know how long we can."

State welfare offers only token payment because Dagenhart is a veteran. Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., has been asked to get him a 100 per cent disability allowance, but that will take time.

"We've been told to pay the back rent or get out," Dagenhart says. "The landlord wants money and I can't blame him."

He says if the landlord evicts him, "then I'll just have to do something to get thrown in jail. Then the welfare people will have to do something to help my wife and son. That's the important thing right now."

Dagenhart's disability payments were increased from $49 a month to $570 a month a year ago when he was recovering from two exploratory operations. But they were reduced to $49 again six months later.

He had five knee operations before his discharge in 1971, and early this year, the VA medical panel in Miami told Dagenhart he either could have the knee fused and the nerves killed; keep the knee and wear a leg brace, or amputate the leg and get an artificial one.

But after a re-examination in April, the panel eliminated amputation as an alternative and advised that he wear a leg brace.

Dr. Donald Pearson, who has operated on Dagenhart's leg, says, "I don't think he fully realizes the full implications of an above-the-knee amputation. The full leg brace would help him and I think, with careful planning, something could be done to repair the knee."

To that Dagenhart responds: "I want this over with. I've already had seven operations and the knee is just as bad off as when it was crushed. I've made up my mind I want it cut off."

Arrest Two In Burglary Of Dr. Hosler's Office

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff arrested two men involved in the May 16 break-in and theft of Dr. R. S. Hosler's office, Ashville.

John W. Ralston, 24, Route 2, Ashville and Michael Alan Johnson, 23, Route 1, Laurelville, both admitted to the charges when taken into custody Friday by Radcliff.

Hosler's office was entered 2:30 a.m. Thursday, with Ralston and Johnson taking numerous drugs.

The arrests clear a Dec. 24, 1973 burglary of Dr. Hosler's office also entered by Ralston and Johnson.

Ralston's arrest also clears the break-in of a doctor's office in Ross County and the Dec. 24, 1973 break-in of an animal clinic in Ross County, where a cash register was taken. The cash register was later found in a creek along the Hayesville-Adelphi Road.

The April 22 break-in and theft of $79 at the Ashville Bar and Grill was also cleared by Ralston's arrest.

They are to appear in Municipal Court today.

Brownouts Avoidable, Firms Claim

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Americans won't have to swelter through the summer to avoid power cutbacks or brownouts, but utility officials say people will have to use electricity wisely if they want to prevent problems.

An Associated Press survey showed that electric companies expect to have enough power to satisfy summer demands, barring unforeseen breakdowns or abnormally hot weather.

They urge conservation, however, and say high electricity prices, caused by higher fuel costs, may help cut usage.

Robert Rives, a spokesman for the Kansas Gas & Electric Co., said, "We have adequate facilities and fuel to take care of people's needs, but we think they should use it wisely."

Rives and others suggested that people set their thermostats at 78 degrees—slightly above usual—just the way they set the thermostats slightly below normal during the winter.

Several utilities said they had extra reserve capacity. A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison of Chicago said, "Our reserve will be 16 per cent. The reserve normally is 14 per cent."

He said the extra capacity is the result of a "slowdown in electrical growth. In past years there has been an electrical growth of 5 or 6 per cent a year, but so far this year, it's not growing at all."

A spokesman for the Public Service Co. of Colorado said the power situation looked good for summer. So did Ernie Quickel, a spokesman for the Georgia Power Co.

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York reported two more extra generating units this year than last. But the company was forced to make a voltage cutback last Friday when the temperature hit 92 degrees. Some equipment was out of service because of repairs and maintenance by company workmen trying to get things ready for summer.

Spokesmen for the New England Power Pool said the only chance of brownouts this summer would be if the weather turned hot at the same time plants were shut down for maintenance.

Officials said it would cost about $19 more to air condition one room in Massachusetts this summer than it did last year, but they said they didn't know whether the cost increase would be enough to cut consumption.

Commissioners Fund Senior Citizen Plans

To "promote the general well-being of the county's older citizens," the Pickaway County Commissioners voted unanimously Monday to appropriate $4200 to the Senior Center.

Payment of the money will be made quarterly, effective for last month.

The money will come from the unanticipated emergency account of the general fund.

Petition filed May 16 to annex two tracts of land with a total of about 22 1/2 acres into the village of Ashville was received by the commissioners who deferred action pending clarification of the document.

The land is bounded by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad tracks on the west, the north corporation line or Station St. on the south, and the N and W Railroad tracks on the east.

Commissioners were confused by the petition in morning session Monday. One tract, about .75 acres, is apparently owned by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Miller. The remainder is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Kreuzer.

The petition appears to be invalid as only the Kreuzers' have signed. A majority is required.

Ashville Village council indicated at its monthly meeting that it would accept the annexation if approved by the commissioners.

The restrooms in Memorial Hall will get a face lift after commissioners awarded a contract for work to George A. Ramey and Sons.

The $1244.55 contract estimate calls for new paint, new floors, new ceiling, repair of the windows and hallway, and resetting the toilets.

Money will come from the Federal Revenue Sharing fund.

An additional two cents a mile will be given County workers who use their own cars for official business.

Due to the increased cost of fuel, commissioners voted to raise the mileage allotment from 10 cents to 12 cents a mile.

The increase will be effective June 1. Commissioners also spent $621 of revenue sharing money for an IBM typewriter for the Pickaway County Juvenile Court.

Mini Bike Accident Injures Girl

Fourteen-year-old Debbie Levisay, Columbus, was treated and released at Children's Hospital for lacerations and contusions to arms and chin received in a mini-bike accident, 8:42 p.m. Sunday.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Danny Dewey, Miss Levisay was riding the bike on Clark Drive in the Clark Lakes Addition, which is a gravel road coming onto Valley Drive, which is asphalt surface.

Latest Belly Dancing Wrinkle

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for saying that belly dancing is a respected form of art. You're absolutely right. It's also marvelous exercise for toning up muscles and trimming off fat.

In our little town of Ashland, Ky. 50 of us are taking lessons in belly dancing at the YWCA. And we're considered part of the Bible belt.

ANITA HOWERTON
DEAR ANITA: Since belly dancing originated in the Middle East during Biblical times, it's entirely appropriate that it should be taught in the Bible belt.

Let's hear it from Suzanne Hunsucker, a reporter from the Coloradoan in Fort Collins, Colorado. She visited a belly dancing class sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department because belly dancing had become a gut issue in that community, and she wanted to get the straight dope. She wrote:

"One middle-aged student said, 'There's nothing sexy about it. Anyone watching us sweat it out would hardly get aroused. It's exhausting physical exercise. At first it nearly killed me. I started using parts of my body I never knew I had. However, soon I got to know my body and began talking to my joints.'

The instructor said, 'I notice a real change in the women taking the class. They become much freer in their movements after a while. When they dance, they lift up their heads and smile.'

"Who knows", wrote the reporter, "with inhibitions being shed and bellies being strengthened, Fort Collins may someday be the belly dancing capital of the West."

Wait there's more: From New Orleans came a feature story published in the states-items by Rosemary Ruiz a reporter who actually joined a belly

Boys' Choir Spring Concert Held Sunday

The Circleville Boys' Choir presented their annual Spring Concert yesterday afternoon at the Trinity Lutheran Church to over 100 parents and friends.

Solo spots were presented by Jim Jacobs, Jim Frericks, Craig Berlin, Mike Alkire and Brent Jacobs. Randy Wolfe, accompanist for the choir, presented "Greig's Piano Concerto" during the intermission.

Each boy was presented a pin signifying his year of participation with the choir. Special attendance awards were presented to Greg Wolfe and Scott Melvin for perfect attendance this current choir year.

During the six years of the choir 96 boys in Pickaway County have sung with the group one or more years, and four boys have sung with the group four years which is the longest any boy can be a member of the choir.

The trophy for the "Choir Boy of 1974" was presented to Jeff Jacobs who was selected by the fellow choir members as the most outstanding choir member.

Near the close of the program, the director Paul Dunkle, was presented with an autographed apron from the boys and also with an engraved pen.

Judge Has Tips For Fast Trials

CARROLLTON, Ohio (AP) — The lone common pleas court judge in rural Carroll County has some answers for his colleagues in cities plagued by backlogs of civil suits.

Judge Paul Perkins, 64, said his proposals go to the heart of the problem in larger common pleas courts—bad management.

"My feeling is that the real problem is the failure, refusal or inability of judges to do business-like, administrative work," he said. "In other words, it's a production problem."

"It's a matter of seeing an even flow of the product through the pipeline."

After three years on the bench, Perkins said he feels urban judges could speed that flow by appointing a master commissioner to conduct pre-trial hearings in civil cases.

He said judges now handle all their own pre-trial hearings, but they need not. A master commissioner could handle the pre-trials, obtain early settlements and relieve judges of the burden, he said.

"You can't leave the responsibility of the pre-trial hearings up to the judges," Perkins said. "They have got to give the authority to the commissioner to conduct really tough pre-trials."

"If they did, they would clean up the backlog faster and they wouldn't need more judges."

But he asked, "Why can't the judges get together and appoint a master commissioner in charge of all pre-trials and give him the responsibility?"

LEGAL NOTICE
Lawson's Store, 420 Lancaster Pike, has applied for a C-2 liquor permit which would allow them to sell high-powered beer and wine for carry-out.
Anyone living within 500-feet of the store who objects to issuance of the permit is asked to contact Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple in writing.
May 18, 20, 21, 1974

He thought he knew the answer. In the larger counties, he said, "If you got one judge who doesn't want it, then you got all the judges who are not going to do it."

He added, "You got to remember, I don't have all the problems they have. I don't have to work with 38 other judges who are all independent."

Perkins had another idea that has worked well for him.

He said the proposal would remedy "the total disregard for jurors in the management of courts."

In personal injury cases, he said, "I set it for jury trial on a date certain. Then I order the counsel to exchange final offers on a settlement."

"If they don't get serious until the trial and then settle it while the jury is waiting, I assess the cost for the 30 prospective jurors against the parties."

Perkins said he can assess the cost

against either the lawyers for the plaintiff or defendant or both.

"Some attorneys say I don't have the authority," he said. "I tell them: 'Take it to the court of appeals.'"

He added, "When my order finally soaked in and it became apparent that it wasn't just another piece of paper, the lawyers really got serious about settling cases."

ANITA HOWERTON

DEAR ANITA: Since belly dancing originated in the Middle East during Biblical times, it's entirely appropriate that it should be taught in the Bible belt.

Let's hear it from Suzanne Hunsucker, a reporter from the Coloradoan in Fort Collins, Colorado. She visited a belly dancing class sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department because belly dancing had become a gut issue in that community, and she wanted to get the straight dope. She wrote:

"One middle-aged student said, 'There's nothing sexy about it. Anyone watching us sweat it out would hardly get aroused. It's exhausting physical exercise. At first it nearly killed me. I started using parts of my body I never knew I had. However, soon I got to know my body and began talking to my joints.'"

The instructor said, 'I notice a real change in the women taking the class. They become much freer in their movements after a while. When they dance, they lift up their heads and smile.'"

"Who knows", wrote the reporter, "with inhibitions being shed and bellies being strengthened, Fort Collins may someday be the belly dancing capital of the West."

Wait there's more: From New Orleans came a feature story published in the states-Items by Rosemary Ruiz a reporter who actually joined a belly

Boys' Choir Spring Concert Held Sunday

The Circleville Boys' Choir presented their annual Spring Concert yesterday afternoon at the Trinity Lutheran Church to over 100 parents and friends.

Solo spots were presented by Jim Jacobs, Jim Frericks, Craig Berlin, Mike Alkire and Brent Jacobs. Randy Wolfe, accompanist for the choir, presented "Greig's Piano Concerto" during the intermission.

Each boy was presented a pin signifying his year of participation with the choir. Special attendance awards were presented to Greg Wolfe and Scott Melvin for perfect attendance this current choir year.

During the six years of the choir 96 boys in Pickaway County have sung with the group one or more years, and four boys have sung with the group four years which is the longest any boy can be a member of the choir.

The trophy for the "Choir Boy of 1974" was presented to Jeff Jacobs who was selected by the fellow choir members as the most outstanding choir member.

Near the close of the program, the director Paul Dunkle, was presented with an autographed apron from the boys and also with an engraved pen.

Judge Has Tips For Fast Trials

CARROLLTON, Ohio (AP) - The lone common pleas court judge in rural Carroll County has some answers for his colleagues in cities plagued by backlogs of civil suits.

Judge Paul Perkins, 64, said his proposals go to the heart of the problem in larger common pleas courts—bad management.

"My feeling is that the real problem is the failure, refusal or inability of judges to do business-like, administrative work," he said. "In other words, it's a production problem."

"It's a matter of seeing an even flow of the product through the pipeline."

After three years on the bench, Perkins said he feels urban judges could speed that flow by appointing a master commissioner to conduct pre-trial hearings in civil cases.

He said judges now handle all their own pre-trial hearings, but they need not. A master commissioner could handle the pre-trials, obtain early settlements and relieve judges of the burden, he said.

"You can't leave the responsibility of the pre-trial hearings up to the judges," Perkins said. "They have got to give the authority to the commissioner to conduct really tough pre-trials."

"If they did, they would clean up the backlog faster and they wouldn't need more judges."

But he asked, "Why can't the judges get together and appoint a master commissioner in charge of all pre-trials and give him the responsibility?"

LEGAL NOTICE
Lawson's Store, 420 Lancaster Pike, has applied for a C-2 liquor permit which would allow them to sell high-powered beer and wine for carry-out.
Anyone living within 500-feet of the store who objects to issuance of the permit is asked to contact Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple in writing.
May 18, 20, 21, 1974

He thought he knew the answer. In the larger counties, he said, "If you got one judge who doesn't want it, then you got all the judges who are not going to do it."

He added, "You got to remember, I don't have all the problems they have. I don't have to work with 38 other judges who are all independent."

Perkins had another idea that has worked well for him.

He said the proposal would remedy "the total disregard for jurors in the management of courts."

In personal injury cases, he said, "I set it for jury trial on a date certain. Then I order the counsel to exchange final offers on a settlement."

"If they don't get serious until the trial and then settle it while the jury is waiting, I assess the cost for the 30 prospective jurors against the parties."

Perkins said he can assess the cost

against either the lawyers for the plaintiff or defendant or both.

"Some attorneys say I don't have the authority," he said. "I tell them: 'Take it to the court of appeals.'"

He added, "When my order finally soaked in and it became apparent that it wasn't just another piece of paper, the lawyers really got serious about settling cases."

Scant Improvement

There are many ways of measuring progress. In the field of crime statistics those who compile the figures sometimes claim it is a striking sign of progress when the crime rate does not rise as rapidly as formerly, or perhaps remains stationary for a time.

That was the reaction of the director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons to a Justice Department survey which shows one of every three federal offenders commits a new crime within two years of his release from prison. The survey disclosed the repeater rate was about the same or slightly better than it was in a similar study 10 years ago.

"The fact that it's stayed the same or perhaps a little better means we are making progress," said Norman A. Carlson of the Bureau of Prisons.

Depending upon the number of prisoners involved in the two studies and the relative seriousness of their crimes, it might be possible to say the rate of repeaters at least had not become worse. But it is not progress in any meaningful sense when after 10 years the rate of recidivism changes so little it becomes a matter of debating definitions of progress.

Habit Of Getting Involved

ON THE LINE
By BOB COSIDINE

NEW YORK — There are Jesuits and then there are Jesuits. The one in the House of Representatives, Robert F. Drinan, S. J. (Dem. Mass.), was among the first public figures to call for the ouster of President Nixon. The one on the White House Staff, John McLaughlin, S. J., is so pro-Nixon that he declared in an extraordinary press conference that the President's obscene language, while deleted from the surrendered tapes, was "good, valid sound, used as a form of release by previous Presidents."

According to a White House aide, Jesuit McLaughlin has repeatedly challenged Jesuit Drinan to debate the President's guilt or innocence from some public forum. The same aide adds, "Drinan wants no part of any such confrontation." A friend of Drinan says, "Father wouldn't dignify that fellow by debating him. Why should he? Father McLaughlin wears expensive suits and has an apartment at Watergate."

It is not known whether Pope Paul VI knows about this angry footnote to the history of a magnetic wing of the Catholic Church and-or separation of church and state. An earlier pontiff, Clement XIV, yielding to heavy pressure from intellectually jealous Bourbon princes, dissolved the Jesuit order in 1773. (The order continued to flourish in Russia and Prussia, under the wing of Catherine the Great and Frederick the Great.) Pope Pius VII restored them as a world order in 1814.

Now then there is Father George Twigg-Porter, S. J., a political neuter who concentrates on the humanities. They hyphenation springs from the fact that he was born in England. He moved with his parents to Los Angeles when he was ten, and some extraordinary things began happening.

First off, he became "Geordie McKay," boy actor, and played well in such classic films (What ever happened to classic films?) as "Of Human Bondage," "David Copperfield," and "Oliver Twist."

What happens to old boy actors? Well, that part of his life completed, Twigg-Porter retrieved his real name from the clutches of Central Casting, studied to become a Jesuit — that takes up to 15 years, three times longer than for any other Catholic order — and now is a man for many seasons:

— He is regional director of the Apostleship of Prayer at the University of San Francisco, chaplain for six San Francisco emergency hospitals, and regional and archdiocesan director for the Apostles of Prayer.

— His inventiveness in electronics has made him a member of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

— He is on the staff of the worldwide "Sacred Heart Hour" on radio and TV, a member of the board for the committee for the aging in San Francisco, member of the National Poetry Association, founder of the Black

Scholarship Fund at the University of San Francisco, advisor to a foundation named the Handicapped, Inc., and a lecturer to deaf mutes in sign language.

If that wasn't enough, he is also associated with the Medic Alert Foundation of Turlock, Calif., a non-profit, charitable, tax-exempt organization founded in 1956. Briefly, for seven bucks you can be enrolled in Medic Alert and thereafter wear a wrist or neck-chain emblem on which will be stamped the details of your medical history in case you collapse on the street, or get hit by a car or mugger, and are rushed off for first aid.

If you are unconscious when treatment begins, the doctor can be alerted that you are diabetic, allergic to penicillin, are taking anti-coagulants, are epileptic, alcoholic, and even "wearing contact lenses." The doctor or good samaritan who picks you up can call the Turlock Foundation collect, night or day, and be given the name of your doctor, blood type, etc. Just under a half a million American now wear Medic Alert Emblems. More than 4,000 join monthly.

So, as we were saying, there are

Jesuits and there are Jesuits. Some, or at least one, lives at the Watergate; others live in leprosy colonies. Most of them teach, sometimes sternly, but generally teach well. One climbed glaciers to give the world some of its earliest knowledge of these huge retreating fingers of ice that once throttled much of the world above the Equator. Some have made the position and intensity of earthquakes their specialty; many have added greatly to the general sum of human knowledge. The graves of early Jesuit, missionary martyrs are scattered through North America, South America, Japan and India. They brough Catholicism to what is now the U. S., where there are now 48,465,438 registered members of the communion, just under 23 per cent of the total population, plus 4,056,057 full-time students in Catholic schools, 18,433 parishes, 56,712 priests, 139,963 nuns, and 9,233 brothers. Converts are up, infant baptisms down.

It is a sign of their intensity, this many centuries after their formation by a Spanish soldier named Ignatius of Loyola (1491-1556) and his chief lieutenants Francis Xavier and Diego Lainez, that two of their disciples argue over a backslid Quaker, and a third is concerned with, say, insulin.

Sowle Resignation Fought By Board

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio University Board of Trustees say they will ask university president Dr. Claude R. Sowle to reconsider his decision to resign.

The board in a statement issued Sunday night said Dr. Sowle had its full support, and asked him to reconsider.

Sowle, in a surprise announcement Sunday, told trustees Chairman William Morris that "the mindless destructive events of the past week have convinced me that I should no longer ask myself and my family to serve the university under such insane conditions."

"Universities are among the most fragile institutions in our society," Sowle said. "It is unfortunate that in such a setting, the dedicated selfless efforts of so many can be nullified by the senseless acts of so few."

The last nine days have been repeated instances of violence or disruption on the OU campus.

Two nights of rioting in Athens city streets May 11 and 12 resulted in 38 arrests, injuries to both students and police, looted shops and smashed windows.

The weekend incidents were followed by a confrontation Tuesday between Sowle and a group of black students on the OU campus. The students, who said they were protesting the lack of minority oriented entertainment and academic programs, refused to listen to him in a meeting, however, the president said.

Sowle said as he left the meeting he was "physically abused with shoving and pushing," and said it was the worst abuse he had taken since becoming president.

On Wednesday, students gave him a list of six demands. On Thursday, they followed with a list of 51 demands, which they said had to be fulfilled within 24 hours and which included lowering of university fees, resignation of some top administrators and a democratically elected board of regents.

Taylor Culbert, OU executive vice president, called the resignation "disheartening."

"It is shocking that, in a university particularly, such a strong and talented person can be driven to the point that he feels compelled to resign," Culbert said.

Edward Tenson, vice president for academic affairs, said the office of university president "has become a magnet for abuse, and attack, and demands and demands and demands."

"Those of us who have worked with him closely have been wondering for a long time how he takes it," Tenson said.

Sowle, a former dean of the University of Cincinnati law school, became OU president on Aug. 1, 1969. His resignation is effective this summer.

Forest Hills Developer Sues For $3 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Forest Hills Utility Co. and its president, David Pheils, have filed a $3 million civil rights suit against 38 persons and the City of Heath as a result of a six-year battle over the firm's rates.

Damages of $1.7 million are sought from past and present state officials and residents of Heath, and $1.3 million is asked from the Licking County city.

In the suit filed in U.S. District Court here, the utility company says the defendants conspired to deprive the utility and its president of their civil liberties and caused both to suffer public scorn through a scheme of defamation, harassment, and intimidation.

The suit also alleges all of the defendants conspired to obtain the Forest Hills Utility Co. without just compensation to its owners and thus prevented them from equal protection of the law.

Lung cancer, the leading killer of all cancers, has increased by about 100 per cent for both men and women. Deaths are expected to rise to 75,000 in 1974 from 72,000 in 1973.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our 5-year-old daughter develops swollen glands in her neck. From time to time with antibiotics they disappear. This happens so often we're beginning to really worry about it. We are afraid that it might be leukemia. Could it be?

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. A. Mich
Dear Mr. and Mrs. A.:

Your anxiety that your daughter might have leukemia is undoubtedly unfounded. When such anxiety is repressed it can play havoc with the emotional destiny of your child and yourselves.

There are many simple, inconsequential reasons for repeated attacks of swollen glands in the neck. Lymph glands everywhere in the body act as filters and collect bacteria, waste products and even foreign particles that may have entered into the lymph stream.

All glands are effective protective agents and are placed in important stations everywhere in the body to guard its welfare.

Infected tonsils and adenoids are probably the most obvious reasons for repeated attacks of glandular enlargements. The tonsils and adenoids are glandular structures themselves. When they have lost their protective properties, infection may seep past them and invade the next line of defense, the glands in the neck. Diseased teeth, gum infections, and scalp infections may cause the glands in the neck to become tender and enlarged.

A complete blood examination will immediately relieve your fears.

It was found that I have a polyp in my bladder. I was told that it is not cancerous, but I worry that this is a possibility.

Mr. R. R. Miss.
Dear Mr. R.:

In most instances, polyps are non-malignant (benign). Only rarely do these tumors undergo malignant changes.

It is for this reason that surgeons keep these polyps under constant surveillance.

Can nail polish cause an allergy?
Miss G. K. Nev.

Dear Miss K.:

Almost every known substance can be responsible for an allergic reaction in people sensitive to the substance. The chemicals in nail polish can cause an allergic reaction. In fact, some people develop itching and swelling of the eyelids which are traceable to nail polish.

Biggest Bird

By JIM BISHOP

We walked the pale concrete at Los Angeles International Airport. Captain Edward P. McDonald was squinting his eyes against the sun looking up. Mechanics were bolting a fifth — repeat, fifth — engine into the wing of an enormous 747.

A fifth engine. It was one-third the size of the Lincoln Tunnel. It had been repaired by National Airlines at Los Angeles and with its turbo-blades chocked, its fires out, it would be flown nonstop to Miami. "No problem," McDonald said, walking back, shading his eyes against the six-story tail. "She'll pull us 2 1/2 degrees left. So, before takeoff, I'll retrim 2 1/2 degrees right."

McDonald, like Thad Royall of Eastern and Dick Merrill, is a member of that diminishing company of great pilots who should never be retired. They go back to when a DC-3 was considered a ball of fire.

We climbed 30 feet to the flight deck. I showed him my FAA pass for riding jump seat. It was the first time I had been in a 747, and I believed only half of what I saw.

Sailing and flight have been my true loves. I flew OX biplanes once. We cruised at 40 m.p.h. and took off from the ruts of Newark in a 60-mile gale and flew backwards in safety. At least I think it was safe.

Later, I flew Curtiss-Condors with 600 h.p. Conquerors on the lower wing, Lockheed Lodestars, Travelairs, Fokkers, Fords, humpbacked Bellancas, DC-2s, 4s, 7s.

As military editor of "Collier's" magazine, I flew B-34s, the 10-engine B-36, B47s with a drogue chute, Starfire fighters, old PBVs, Martin Mariners, beautiful sleek DC-8s, Boeing 707s, DC-9s, 990s, 1011s (a dream boat). I even flew an old AD-4 off the carrier "Midway."

But I never became a pilot. I'm as tense as a bride listening to a knock on the hotel door. So I ask a thousand questions, write about aircraft and never address a crew until we're at cruising altitude.

Captain McDonald's hair is as white as mine. On the ground, he sits 30 feet above the runway, which is a nice thing to remember when you're landing. Gordon Biggar was his first officer. James R. Johnson, who could win a medal for consideration of strangers, was flight engineer.

The 747 is said to have two decks. It's really three. The top deck has a cockpit and, behind it, an ornate lounge. A circular stairway leads to the main deck where four movies were being shown to 362 passengers in separate "living rooms." Two elevators take you down to Robert Kubilius, who cooks hundreds of dinners electrically and has no window and never knows where the hell he is.

The flagship of Christopher Columbus was the "Santa Maria" and weighed 80 tons. The 747 could hide that ship in its belly and fly anywhere. McDonald and Biggar began the litany of check lists. Our gross weight, plane, passengers, fuel and luggage was 567,000 lbs. — 283 tons.

This airliner, with its redundant computers, can be aimed down a runway, lift off, make its turn over the Pacific Ocean, climb to 45,000 feet, set exact course for Miami, Florida, at 600 m.p.h., and land itself in four hours and six minutes.

No hands. For the passenger, there is barely time for a full-course dinner, a cocktail and a movie. The 747 averages about seven tons of fuel per hour, so, every 60 minutes, she's 14,000 pounds lighter. Engineer Johnson kept cutting the throttles back because, as the 747 becomes lighter, she flies faster. McDonald doesn't want her to go faster than 0.84 of the speed of sound.

There were nine National Airlines stewardesses who lie. They will not let you fly them. I read the computer. It's a bright, digital display between captain and first officer. Phoenix, it said, was 240.3 miles behind us; Miami was 1901.9 miles ahead. The tenths of a mile were clicking so fast each direction that I could not call them aloud.

We were southeast of New Orleans, over the Gulf of Mexico at 33,040 feet, when the two radar sets displayed St. Petersburg and Sarasota, Florida.

The inertial guidance systems, first used in ballistic missiles, are hooked onto the automatic pilot and automatic landing system on this airplane. It is so precise that, at one point, the system lit a figure 127, to show that we were picking up that much tailwind in the jetstream.

Coming down slowly, steadily into Miami, the 747 held onto the one ton of pressurized air it carries for normal passenger breathing. McDonald called "touchdown" as the altimeter stated "30 feet altitude." The tires screeched.

The $20 million dollar 747 makes man look incompetent . . .

The most bouncing baby on record is Elias Daou, of Suniani, Ghana, on Oct. 12, 1969. At age 22 months, Elias weighed 61 1/2 pounds and his circumference was 35 1/2 inches.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our 5-year-old daughter develops swollen glands in her neck. From time to time with antibiotics they disappear. This happens so often we're beginning to really worry about it. We are afraid that it might be leukemia. Could it be?

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. A. Mich
Dear Mr. and Mrs. A.:

Your anxiety that your daughter might have leukemia is undoubtedly unfounded. When such anxiety is repressed it can play havoc with the emotional destiny of your child and yourselves.

There are many simple, inconsequential reasons for repeated attacks of swollen glands in the neck. Lymph glands everywhere in the body act as filters and collect bacteria, waste products and even foreign particles that may have entered into the lymph stream.

All glands are effective protective agents and are placed in important stations everywhere in the body to guard its welfare.

Infected tonsils and adenoids are probably the most obvious reasons for repeated attacks of glandular enlargements. The tonsils and adenoids are glandular structures themselves. When they have lost their protective properties, infection may seep past them and invade the next line of defense, the glands in the neck.

Diseased teeth, gum infections, and scalp infections may cause the glands in the neck to become tender and enlarged.

A complete blood examination will immediately relieve your fears.

It was found that I have a polyp in my bladder. I was told that it is not cancerous, but I worry that this is a possibility.

Mr. R. R. Miss.

Dear Mr. R.:

In most instances, polyps are non-malignant (benign). Only rarely do these tumors undergo malignant changes.

It is for this reason that surgeons keep these polyps under constant surveillance.

Can nail polish cause an allergy?
Miss G. K. Nev.

Dear Miss K.:

Almost every known substance can be responsible for an allergic reaction in people sensitive to the substance.

The chemicals in nail polish can cause an allergic reaction. In fact, some people develop itching and swelling of the eyelids which are traceable to nail polish.

NEW YORK — There are Jesuits and then there are Jesuits. The one in the House of Representatives, Robert F. Drinan, S. J. (Dem. Mass.), was among the first public figures to call for the ouster of President Nixon. The one on the White House Staff, John McLaughlin, S. J., is so pro-Nixon that he declared in an extraordinary press conference that the President's obscene language, while deleted from the surrendered tapes, was "good, valid sound, used as a form of release by previous Presidents."

According to a White House aide, Jesuit McLaughlin has repeatedly challenged Jesuit Drinan to debate the President's guilt or innocence from some public forum. The same aide adds, "Drinan wants no part of any such confrontation." A friend of Drinan says, "Father wouldn't dignify that fellow by debating him. Why should he? Father McLaughlin wears expensive suits and has an apartment at Watergate."

It is not known whether Pope Paul VI knows about this angry footnote to the history of a magnetic wing of the Catholic Church and/or separation of church and state. An earlier pontiff, Clement XIV, yielding to heavy pressure from intellectually jealous Bourbon princes, dissolved the Jesuit order in 1773. (The order continued to flourish in Russia and Prussia, under the wing of Catherine the Great and Frederick the Great.) Pope Pius VII restored them as a world order in 1814.

Now then there is Father George Twigg-Porter, S. J., a political neuter who concentrates on the humanities. They hyphenate springs from the fact that he was born in England. He moved with his parents to Los Angeles when he was ten, and some extraordinary things began happening.

First off, he became "Geordie McKay," boy actor, and played well in such classic films (What ever happened to classic films?) as "Of Human Bondage," "David Copperfield," and "Oliver Twist."

What happens to old boy actors? Well, that part of his life completed, Twigg-Porter retrieved his real name from the clutches of Central Casting, studied to become a Jesuit — that takes up to 15 years, three times longer than for any other Catholic order — and now is a man for many seasons: — He is regional director of the Apostleship of Prayer at the University of San Francisco, chaplain for six San Francisco emergency hospitals, and regional and archdiocesan director for the Apostles of Prayer.

— His inventiveness in electronics has made him a member of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

— He is on the staff of the worldwide "Sacred Heart Hour" on radio and TV, a member of the board for the committee for the aging in San Francisco, member of the National Poetry Association, founder of the Black

Scholarship Fund at the University of San Francisco, advisor to a foundation named the Handicapped, Inc., and a lecturer to deaf mutes in sign language.

If that wasn't enough, he is also associated with the Medic Alert Foundation of Turlock, Calif., a non-profit, charitable, tax-exempt organization founded in 1956. Briefly, for seven bucks you can be enrolled in Medic Alert and thereafter wear a wrist or neck-chain emblem on which will be stamped the details of your medical history in case you collapse on the street, or get hit by a car or mugger, and are rushed off for first aid.

If you are unconscious when treatment begins, the doctor can be alerted that you are diabetic, allergic to penicillin, are taking anticoagulants, are epileptic, alcoholic, and even "wearing contact lenses." The doctor or good samaritan who picks you up can call the Turlock Foundation collect, night or day, and be given the name of your doctor, blood type, etc. Just under a half a million American now wear Medic Alert Emblems. More than 4,000 join monthly.

Sowle Resignation Fought By Board

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio University Board of Trustees say they will ask university president Dr. Claude R. Sowle to reconsider his decision to resign.

The board in a statement issued Sunday night said Dr. Sowle had its full support, and asked him to reconsider. Sowle, in a surprise announcement Sunday, told trustees Chairman William Morris that "the mindless destructive events of the past week have convinced me that I should no longer ask myself and my family to serve the university under such insane conditions."

"Universities are among the most fragile institutions in our society," Sowle said. "It is unfortunate that in such a setting, the dedicated selfless efforts of so many can be nullified by the senseless acts of so few."

The last nine days have been repeated instances of violence or disruption on the OU campus.

Two nights of rioting in Athens city streets May 11 and 12 resulted in 38 arrests, injuries to both students and police, looted shops and smashed windows.

The weekend incidents were followed by a confrontation Tuesday between Sowle and a group of black students on the OU campus. The students, who said they were protesting the lack of minority oriented entertainment and academic programs, refused to listen to him in a meeting, however, the president said.

Sowle said as he left the meeting he was "physically abused with shoving and pushing," and said it was the worst abuse he had taken since becoming president.

On Wednesday, students gave him a list of six demands. On Thursday, they followed with a list of 51 demands, which they said had to be fulfilled within 24 hours and which included lowering of university fees, resignation of some top administrators and a democratically elected board of regents.

Taylor Culbert, OU executive vice president, called the resignation "disheartening."

"It is shocking that, in a university particularly, such a strong and talented person can be driven to the point that he feels compelled to resign," Culbert said.

Edward Tenson, vice president for academic affairs, said the office of university president "has become a magnet for abuse, and attack, and demands and demands and demands."

"Those of us who have worked with him closely have been wondering for a long time how he takes it," Tenson said.

Sowle, a former dean of the University of Cincinnati law school, became OU president on Aug. 1, 1969. His resignation is effective this summer.

Forest Hills Developer Sues For $3 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Forest Hills Utility Co. and its president, David Pheils, have filed a $3 million civil rights suit against 38 persons and the City of Heath as a result of a six-year battle over the firm's rates.

Damages of $1.7 million are sought from past and present state officials and residents of Heath, and $1.3 million is asked from the Licking County city.

In the suit filed in U.S. District Court here, the utility company says the defendants conspired to deprive the utility and its president of their civil liberties and caused both to suffer public scorn through a scheme of defamation, harassment, and intimidation.

The suit also alleges all of the defendants conspired to obtain the Forest Hills Utility Co. without just compensation to its owners and thus prevented them from equal protection of the law.

Biggest Bird

By JIM BISHOP

We walked the pale concrete at Los Angeles International Airport. Captain Edward P. McDonald was squinting his eyes against the sun looking up. Mechanics were bolting a fifth — repeat, fifth — engine into the wing of an enormous 747.

A fifth engine. It was one-third the size of the Lincoln Tunnel. It had been repaired by National Airlines at Los Angeles and with its turbo-blades chocked, its fires out, it would be flown nonstop to Miami. "No problem," McDonald said, walking back, shading his eyes against the six-story tail. "She'll pull us 2 1/2 degrees left. So, before takeoff, I'll retrim 2 1/2 degrees right."

McDonald, like Thad Royall of Eastern and Dick Merrill, is a member of that diminishing company of great pilots who should never be retired. They go back to when a DC-3 was considered a ball of fire.

We climbed 30 feet to the flight deck. I showed him my FAA pass for riding jump seat. It was the first time I had been in a 747, and I believed only half of what I saw.

Sailing and flight have been my true loves. I flew OX biplanes once. We cruised at 40 m.p.h. and took off from the ruts of Newark in a 60-mile gale and flew backwards in safety. At least I think it was safe.

Later, I flew Curtiss-Condors with 600 h.p. Conquerors on the lower wing, Lockheed Lodestars, Travelairs, Fokkers, Fords, humpbacked Bellanca, DC-2s, 4s, 7s.

As military editor of "Collier's" magazine, I flew B-34s, the 10-engine B-36, B47s with a drogue chute, Starfire fighters, old PB4s, Martin Mariners, beautiful sleek DC-8s, Boeing 707s, DC-9s, 990s, 1011s (a dream boat). I even flew an old AD-4 off the carrier "Midway."

But I never became a pilot. I'm as tense as a bride listening to a knock on the hotel door. So I ask a thousand questions, write about aircraft and never address a crew until we're at cruising altitude.

Captain McDonald's hair is as white as mine. On the ground, he sits 30 feet above the runway, which is a nice thing to remember when you're landing. Gordon Biggar was his first officer. James R. Johnson, who could win a medal for consideration of strangers, was flight engineer.

The 747 is said to have two decks. It's really three. The top deck has a cockpit and, behind it, an ornate lounge. A circular stairway leads to the main deck where four movies were being shown to 362 passengers in separate "living rooms." Two elevators take you down to Robert Kubilus, who cooks hundreds of dinners electrically and has no window and never knows where the hell he is.

The flagship of Christopher Columbus was the "Santa Maria" and weighed 80 tons. The 747 could hide that ship in its belly and fly anywhere. McDonald and Biggar began the litany of check lists. Our gross weight, plane, passengers, fuel and luggage was 567,000 lbs. — 283 tons.

This airliner, with its redundant computers, can be aimed down a runway, lift off, make its turn over the Pacific Ocean, climb to 45,000 feet, set exact course for Miami, Florida, at 600 m.p.h., and land itself in four hours and six minutes.

No hands. For the passenger, there is barely time for a full-course dinner, a cocktail and a movie. The 747 averages about seven tons of fuel per hour, so, every 60 minutes, she's 14,000 pounds lighter. Engineer Johnson kept cutting the throttles back because, as the 747 becomes lighter, she flies faster. McDonald doesn't want her to go faster than 0.84 of the speed of sound.

There were nine National Airlines stewardesses who lie. They will not let you fly them. I read the computer. It's a bright, digital display between captain and first officer. Phoenix, it said, was 240.3 miles behind us; Miami was 1901.9 miles ahead. The tenths of a mile were clicking so fast each direction that I could not call them aloud.

We were southeast of New Orleans, over the Gulf of Mexico at 33,040 feet, when the two radar sets displayed St. Petersburg and Sarasota, Florida.

The inertial guidance systems, first used in ballistic missiles, are hooked onto the automatic pilot and automatic landing system on this airplane. It is so precise that, at one point, the system lit a figure 127, to show that we were picking up that much tailwind in the jetstream.

Coming down slowly, steadily into Miami, the 747 held onto the one ton of pressurized air it carries for normal passenger breathing. McDonald called "touchdown" as the altimeter stated "30 feet altitude." The tires screeched.

The $20 million dollar 747 makes man look incompetent . . .

The most bouncing baby on record is Elias Daou, of Suniani, Ghana, on Oct. 12, 1969. At age 22 months, Elias weighed 61 1/2 pounds and his circumference was 35 1/2 inches.

Soviet Activist Faces Auto Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet Jewish activist faces trial in Moscow for allegedly running down the daughter of a Soviet official, although hospital records disclosed here say the girl jumped in front of his car in a suicide attempt.

A spokesman for the Union of Councils for Soviet Jews said the case illustrates a pattern of Soviet authorities bringing "trumped-up" criminal charges against dissidents, apparently to avoid adverse Western reaction to political trials.

Photographic copies of the hospital documents, which the Washington-based organization said it obtained from Soviet dissident sources, were made available to The Associated Press.

Charged in the incident is Victor Polsky, 44, an engineer-physicist who has been refused permission to emigrate to Israel because Soviet authorities said he had access to secret information when he headed a laboratory developing X-ray equipment.

Polisky has signed petitions, has been arrested for participating in demonstrations and has led protest delegations to Soviet officials, the Jewish group said.

"I think if he goes to trial his chances of being acquitted or even getting a light sentence are very slim," said Louis Rosenblum, who visited Polisky three weeks ago in Moscow and learned of the indictment against him through overseas telephone contact.

The investigation into Polisky's case was to be completed by today. His trial was expected to follow shortly.

Polisky could get up to three years in prison if convicted of running down 19-year-old Tatyana Alexandrovna Zhukova, an employee of the Communist party committee for the Baum district of Moscow.

The girl's father works for the Soviet Interior Ministry, which oversees granting of exit visas to Jews, while her mother is employed by the Communist party's city committee, Rosenblum said.

According to dissident sources, immediately following the nighttime accident March 25, both the girl and her parents, with whom she had been walking, told a policeman that Polsky was not at fault.

Bonus Applications Available Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Veterans may begin picking up applications for their state bonuses today at county veterans services offices.

Eligible veterans may receive up to $500 in cash or $1,000 in educational benefits as a result of the bonus approved last session by the General Assembly.

Some 500,000 veterans are expected to apply between now and Dec. 31, 1977, for the benefits, said John W. Bush, bonus commission director.

Bush said it could take months, even up to a year, for some veterans to receive their payments.

He said applications also are available at the veterans services for families of deceased veterans, or men still listed as prisoners of war or missing in action.

Integration Still Dream For Town

SUMMERTON, S.C. (AP) — "It is amazing to see how the blacks and the whites get along so good in everyday life, but when you mix them in the schools — boom."

That's the assessment of Joseph Richburg, the chairman of the school board in Summerton, S.C., a town of 6,500. Richburg, a black, wasn't referring to violence in the schools but to the state of school integration two decades after the Supreme Court's landmark desegregation ruling.

It was 20 years ago today that the nation's highest court handed down its decision outlawing separate schools for blacks and whites.

At that time, Summerton had schools for blacks and schools for whites. Today, there is one public school system, but only three white youths attend public schools. More than 400 whites are enrolled at the private Clarendon Hall Academy, nestled in a grove of pines on the outskirts of the town.

Of Summerton's citizens, 5,200 are blacks, and the public schools have 2,000 students from the town and surrounding areas.

Richburg, seated in the barber shop he owns and looking out on a quiet downtown street, said, "things are better now than they once were, but there's plenty of room for improvement."

"We have no racial problems in this town. The whites and blacks work good together. But the white people just don't want to desegregate the schools."

Mayor Billy DuBois of Summerton shared Richburg's assessment. "We get along better here, I mean the blacks and the whites, than any place I know of. It's a peaceful town," he said.

But DuBois, whose daughter isn't old enough for school, said he has no explanation for the segregated schools. "I can't say why parents with school-age children don't send them to public school. I'm not in that position as yet."

Several white citizens, none of whom wanted to be identified, said the reason for the whites fleeing to the private school was simply a matter of percentages.

One said, "If the ratio was even 50-50, I might consider sending my kids to the public schools. Now, the way it adds up, they would be outnumbered 6-1 or maybe 7-1 by blacks."

B.O. Butler, the black school superintendent, said race relations in Summerton were excellent and shared the view that whites refused to send their children to public schools because of the large number of blacks. "Why they feel this way, I don't understand," he said. "I hope one day it will come to completely mixed schools, where our children work and study together as our adults now do."

Richburg voiced this view, too. "It may not be too far off," he said. "It should happen and I think it will happen. Sometimes it takes the white people time to adjust to change."

Not everyone is so optimistic, however. C.A. Ridgeway, the police chief who heads a force of two blacks and two whites, was asked if there will ever be full integration in Summerton's public schools.

"I don't know, I just don't know," he said.

Meanwhile, Summerton's public schools face financial problems and Butler says it's related to the racial situation. Summerton isn't wealthy to begin with — a survey two years ago ranked it 75th of the state's 93 school districts in potential revenue — and Butler said white parents with children in private schools are slow to help the public schools.

"We have enough money to just get by, no more," Butler said. "Our biggest problem is getting the voters to approve an increase in taxes to help the schools."

Drivers Obey Low Speed Limit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio drivers are obeying the 55 miles per hour highway speed limit better than they did the higher speed limit, says state Highway Patrol Supt. Col. Robert Chiaramonte.

Chiaramonte said patrol surveys showed an average speed of 56.7 m.p.h. for cars and 54.9 m.p.h. for trucks. Furthermore, he said, highway patrol records showed a six per cent reduction in highway accidents for the first four months of the year.

Some 500,000 veterans are expected to apply between now and Dec. 31, 1977, for the benefits, said John W. Bush, bonus commission director.

Bush said it could take months, even up to a year, for some veterans to receive their payments.

He said applications also are available at the veterans services for families of deceased veterans, or men still listed as prisoners of war or missing in action.

Integration Still Dream For Town

SUMMERTON, S.C. (AP) — "It is amazing to see how the blacks and the whites get along so good in everyday life, but when you mix them in the schools — boom."

That's the assessment of Joseph Richburg, the chairman of the school board in Summerton, S.C., a town of 6,500. Richburg, a black, wasn't referring to violence in the schools but to the state of school integration two decades after the Supreme Court's landmark desegregation ruling.

It was 20 years ago today that the nation's highest court handed down its decision outlawing separate schools for blacks and whites.

At that time, Summerton had schools for blacks and schools for whites. Today, there is one public school system, but only three white youths attend public schools. More than 400 whites are enrolled at the private Clarendon Hall Academy, nestled in a grove of pines on the outskirts of the town.

Of Summerton's citizens, 5,200 are blacks, and the public schools have 2,000 students from the town and surrounding areas.

Richburg, seated in the barber shop he owns and looking out on a quiet downtown street, said, "things are better now than they once were, but there's plenty of room for improvement."

"We have no racial problems in this town. The whites and blacks work good together. But the white people just don't want to desegregate the schools."

Mayor Billy DuBois of Summerton shared Richburg's assessment. "We get along better here, I mean the blacks and the whites, than any place I know of. It's a peaceful town," he said.

But DuBois, whose daughter isn't old enough for school, said he has no explanation for the segregated schools. "I can't say why parents with school-age children don't send them to public school. I'm not in that position as yet."

Several white citizens, none of whom wanted to be identified, said the reason for the whites fleeing to the private school was simply a matter of percentages.

One said, "If the ratio was even 50-50, I might consider sending my kids to the public schools. Now, the way it adds up, they would be outnumbered 6-1 or maybe 7-1 by blacks."

B.O. Butler, the black school superintendent, said race relations in Summerton were excellent and shared the view that whites refused to send their children to public schools because of the large number of blacks.

"Why they feel this way, I don't understand," he said. "I hope one day it will come to completely mixed schools, where our children work and study together as our adults now do."

Richburg voiced this view, too. "It may not be too far off," he said. "It should happen and I think it will happen. Sometimes it takes the white people time to adjust to change."

Not everyone is so optimistic, however. C.A. Ridgeway, the police chief who heads a force of two blacks and two whites, was asked if there will ever be full integration in Summerton's public schools.

"I don't know, I just don't know," he said.

Meanwhile, Summerton's public schools face financial problems and Butler says it's related to the racial situation. Summerton isn't wealthy to begin with — a survey two years ago ranked it 75th of the state's 93 school districts in potential revenue — and Butler said white parents with children in private schools are slow to help the public schools.

"We have enough money to just get by, no more," Butler said. "Our biggest problem is getting the voters to approve an increase in taxes to help the schools."

Drivers Obey Low Speed Limit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio drivers are obeying the 55 miles per hour highway speed limit better than they did the higher speed limit, says state Highway Patrol Supt. Col. Robert Chiaramonte.

Chiaramonte said patrol surveys showed an average speed of 56.7 m.p.h. for cars and 54.9 m.p.h. for trucks.

Furthermore, he said, highway patrol records showed a six per cent reduction in highway accidents for the first four months of the year.

MR. AND MRS. STEPHEN PHILLIPS

Miss Rebecca Mahoney Weds Stephen Phillips

Miss Rebecca S. Mahoney became the bride of Stephen Phillips during an evening candlelight ceremony, 7 p.m., May 4, at Kingston United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Pearl Casto officiated during the double ring service uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Richard Mahoney, Adelphi, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Phillips Route 1, Kingston.

Mrs. Carson Kelly, organist, presented a half hour of nuptial music prior to the ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She was attired in an ivory gown of sata peau, featuring a wedding band collar of Venice lace. The yoke was accented by chantilly lace, seed pearl and crystal beading, with appliques of Venice and Alencon lace. The fitted leg-o-mutton sleeves featured handkerchief cuffs. A flounce decorated the flaired A-line skirt with a detachable train.

On the brides cathedral length veil of illusion were scattered Venice lace motifs.

It was attached to a cap of Alencon and Venice lace appliques. Her only jewelry was an antique cameo brooch belonging to her late grandmother, Mrs. James P. Mahoney. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, daisies, and babies breath, with white satin ribbons.

Miss Joyce Congrove, Route 2, Kingston, served as maid of honor. She carried a wicker basket of orange talisman roses and babies breath.

Senior Citizens Visit Herald, Telephone Co.

Members of Pickaway Senior Center ate lunch together Tuesday at Pickaway Arms. They then toured the Circleville Herald. There they were shown and told of the process by which the news and other materials which go into making a newspaper, are changed from words written on paper to orderly columns in attractive arrangements on the sheet, printed, cut, folded and made ready to be delivered.

Steve Jones, editor of the paper conducted the tour and explained the various processes, and each member received that day's paper, fresh off the press. One lady even saw her name being printed as she walked past an operator.

The group walked across the street to the General Telephone Co. where Paul Diener and Arthur Clem each took a group and explained how telephone calls are made. One of the interesting facts is the battery room which is local protection to assure continued telephone service even if the power fails. All power used at all times goes through these batteries, constantly recharging them.

There is also a diesel fuel powered generator which automatically starts operating in case of power failure. Between the automatic generator and the storage capacity of the batteries,

THIRTY-DAY WEATHER OUTLOOK—The nation's 30-day temperature and precipitation outlooks for the mid-May to mid-June period are shown in these maps on information supplied by the National Weather Service.

Police Study Shows Women Doing Well On D.C. Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many of the men in blue don't agree, but women have joined Washington's finest with flying colors, says the Police Foundation.

A survey which compared the performance of 86 women patrol officers with that of 86 men showed "generally similar" results, the foundation said Sunday.

The report said that "women made fewer arrests and gave fewer traffic citations," but added it was not clear whether that was because they were too easy or simply that men are too tough.

It was clear, however, that many of the male officers aren't enthused about the presence of their women counterparts.

Typical of interviews, said the foundation, were these remarks:

"Most women panic easily ... Women

Increases Noted In Jobless Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Increases were recorded last month in the number of cases of aid for families with unemployed fathers, the Ohio Department of Welfare reports.

Charles Bates, the agency's director, said there were 315 more persons in the category in April than in the previous month.

At the same time, the agency reported a continuing downtrend in the number of Aid to Dependent Children recipients.

Bates said there were 497,173 AC recipients in April 2,226 less than in March.

The decreasing trend began in December, Bates said, and since then 6,565 cases have been dropped.

Soviet Crop Plantings Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fears a month ago that the Soviet Union was far behind in planting of spring crops seem to have dissipated, according to a new analysis published today by the Agriculture Department.

As of May 6, the report said, Soviet farmers had planted 156.4 million acres of spring crops, only about one week behind the "excellent progress" a year earlier when 1973 planting was under way.

Roger S. Euler, who specializes in Communist-area agriculture for the department's Economic Research Service, called the new report encouraging.

"It's an improving situation as far as planting in the Soviet Union is concerned," Euler told a reporter. "As we said last month, it was quite early then to be making predictions."

In April, the Soviet press raised questions about crop planting for 1974 harvests and said poor weather and inefficiency on farms were contributing to the delay.

At that time, only 41.6 million acres had been planted, compared with 107.2 million on the same date, April 22, a year earlier. In today's report, Soviet farmers were shown to have narrowed the gap sharply with the 156.4 million acres planted on May 6, compared with 199.6 million a year earlier.

"These comparisons suggest that 1974 seeding progress thus far may be near normal," the report said. "That is, progress in 1972 and 1973, but particularly in 1973, was unusually rapid because of favorable weather, and the larger than normal amount of seeding was due to reduced winter grain areas."

North Hocking Water Aid Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Natural Resources Director William Nye has recommended the U. S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) approve an application from the North Hocking Small Watershed for planning assistance.

The recommendation permits SCS to study the watershed, located in Fairfield County and including Lancaster, with regard to problems relating to erosion, urban flood damage and agricultural flood damage.

Nye took the action after holding a public hearing at Lancaster March 21 and reviewing the application.

Marsh Challenges King Leadership

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Milan Marsh, state Carpenter's union leader, was expected to announce for the presidency of the Ohio AFL-CIO today, challenging the 10-year reign of Frank King.

Marsh, of Youngstown, had scheduled a 9 a.m. news conference in Cleveland. Marsh's announcement would fall on the eve of the union organization's state convention here this week.

The convention is expected to bring to a head a power struggle that has continued for several months and involved the governor's office.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's executive assistant, Phillip R. Moots, denies that the governor's office is working for the ouster of Frank W. King as state AFL-CIO president.

But James N. Iafelice of Cleveland, president of the International Association of Machinists District 54 and a staunch supporter of King, charges angrily that Gilligan is interfering in union politics.

"In the whole history of labor," Iafelice said recently, "I don't recall another Ohio governor who interfered so much in the affairs of the union."

Leading the faction opposing King is Warren J. Smith, AFL-CIO state secretary-treasurer, who is running for re-election. Smith has circulated a 50-page statement opposing King's leadership.

Floyd Chapman of Massillon says he is backed by King and will oppose Smith for secretary-treasurer.

Chapman, financial secretary for United Steel Workers Local 1124, said Sunday he is backed "100 per cent" by King and will be nominated from the convention floor Thursday.

"It's time for a change," he declared.

Reports are that King will face a re-election challenge from either Milan Marsh of Youngstown, a state Carpenter's union official, or William Sheehan, head of Cincinnati's AFL-CIO.

King said all the challenges still are unofficial.

Smith and his supporters have accused King of bossism and

O'Grady Blasts Rhodes Campaign

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP)—Ohioans "cannot afford the luxury" of another administration of former Gov. James A. Rhodes, a campaign official for Gov. John J. Gilligan said here Saturday.

Eugene P. O'Grady, who is heading up Gilligan's re-election effort against Rhodes, said Rhodes' administration ignored problems in education, environment and mental health.

Gilligan has begun a campaign to clean up inefficiency and mismanagement of Ohio's affairs, O'Grady said.

"The job isn't finished," but every year, he said, "it gets a little better and that means hope."

O'Grady made the remarks in a prepared statement for a meeting here of the Federated Democratic Women of Ohio.

dispute but denies that the governor is involved in the anti-King movement.

"I have never talked to the governor about it," Smith said. "I don't think it would make a difference to the governor which man won. The labor movement is totally in support of the governor, no matter who is president."

Moots said the governor's office is keeping its hands off the AFL-CIO convention.

But he said there "has been a feeling among labor guys for some time that Frank (King) is following his own purposes and deals instead of representing the AFL-CIO."

He added that State Sen. Anthony Calabrese, who is the Senate Democratic leader, "has been very careful to do what Frank wants."

"The question asked by some of the members is whether Frank has been giving the kind of leadership to the AFL-CIO that it needs and wants," the governor's aide said.

THIRTY-DAY WEATHER OUTLOOK—The nation's 30-day temperature and precipitation outlooks for the mid-May to mid-June period are shown in these maps on information supplied by the National Weather Service.

Soviet Crop Plantings Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fears a month ago that the Soviet Union was far behind in planting of spring crops seem to have dissipated, according to a new analysis published today by the Agriculture Department.

As of May 6, the report said, Soviet farmers had planted 156.4 million acres of spring crops, only about one week behind the "excellent progress" a year earlier when 1973 planting was under way.

Roger S. Euler, who specializes in Communist-area agriculture for the department's Economic Research Service, called the new report encouraging.

"It's an improving situation as far as planting in the Soviet Union is concerned," Euler told a reporter. "As we said last month, it was quite early then to be making predictions."

In April, the Soviet press raised questions about crop planting for 1974 harvests and said poor weather and inefficiency on farms were contributing to the delay.

At that time, only 41.6 million acres had been planted, compared with 107.2 million on the same date, April 22, a year earlier. In today's report, Soviet farmers were shown to have narrowed the gap sharply with the 156.4 million acres planted on May 6, compared with 199.6 million a year earlier.

"These comparisons suggest that 1974 seeding progress thus far may be near normal," the report said. "That is, progress in 1972 and 1973, but particularly in 1973, was unusually rapid because of favorable weather, and the larger than normal amount of seeding was due to reduced winter grain areas."

North Hocking Water Aid Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Natural Resources Director William Nye has recommended the U. S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) approve an application from the North Hocking Small Watershed for planning assistance.

The recommendation permits SCS to study the watershed, located in Fairfield County and including Lancaster, with regard to problems relating to erosion, urban flood damage and agricultural flood damage.

Nye took the action after holding a public hearing at Lancaster March 21 and reviewing the application.

Marsh Challenges King Leadership

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Milan Marsh, state Carpenter's union leader, was expected to announce for the presidency of the Ohio AFL-CIO today, challenging the 10-year reign of Frank King.

Marsh, of Youngstown, had scheduled a 9 a.m. news conference in Cleveland. Marsh's announcement would fall on the eve of the union organization's state convention here this week.

The convention is expected to bring to a head a power struggle that has continued for several months and involved the governor's office.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's executive assistant, Phillip R. Moots, denies that the governor's office is working for the ouster of Frank W. King as state AFL-CIO president.

But James N. Iafelice of Cleveland, president of the International Association of Machinists District 54 and a staunch supporter of King, charges angrily that Gilligan is interfering in union politics.

"In the whole history of labor," Iafelice said recently, "I don't recall another Ohio governor who interfered so much in the affairs of the union."

Leading the faction opposing King is Warren J. Smith, AFL-CIO state secretary-treasurer, who is running for re-election. Smith has circulated a 50-page statement opposing King's leadership.

Floyd Chapman of Massillon says he is backed by King and will oppose Smith for secretary-treasurer.

Chapman, financial secretary for United Steel Workers Local 1124, said Sunday he is backed "100 per cent" by King and will be nominated from the convention floor Thursday.

"It's time for a change," he declared. Reports are that King will face a re-election challenge from either Milan Marsh of Youngstown, a state Carpenter's union official, or William Sheehan, head of Cincinnati's AFL-CIO.

King said all the challenges still are unofficial.

Smith and his supporters have accused King of bossism and mismanagement of the organization's affairs.

Police Study Shows Women Doing Well On D.C. Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many of the men in blue don't agree, but women have joined Washington's finest with flying colors, says the Police Foundation.

A survey which compared the performance of 86 women patrol officers with that of 86 men showed "generally similar" results, the foundation said Sunday.

The report said that "women made fewer arrests and gave fewer traffic citations," but added it was not clear whether that was because they were too easy or simply that men are too tough.

It was clear, however, that many of the male officers aren't enthused about the presence of their women counterparts.

Typical of interviews, said the foundation, were these remarks: "Most women panic easily . . . Women are not aggressive and tend to lay back and act as a ride-along or report taker . . . There aren't too many females who can handle themselves or situations when things get rough . . . They belong in an office.

There were a few positive appraisals.

"I have found female officers to be more intelligent . . . less quick to anger . . . I feel the intelligence and commitment of several female officers to be in refreshing contrast to the crybaby attitude of many males."

Patrick V. Murphy, president of the private nonprofit foundation, said the findings "will be useful for police agencies nationwide" as they attempt to comply with federal law requiring equal employment opportunities for women.

In recent lawsuits, the Justice Department has accused several police departments of discriminating against women.

The District of Columbia was elected for the study, conducted by Urban Institute researchers with a $300,000 Police Foundation grant, because Police Chief Jerry Wilson in 1972 began assigning substantial numbers of women officers to street patrol.

Increases Noted In Jobless Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Increases were recorded last month in the number of cases of aid for families with unemployed fathers, the Ohio Department of Welfare reports.

Charles Bates, the agency's director, said there were 315 more persons in the category in April than in the previous month.

At the same time, the agency reported a continuing downturn in the number of Aid to Dependent Children recipients.

Bates said there were 497,173 AC recipients in April 2,226 less than in March.

The decreasing trend began in December, Bates said, and since then 6,565 cases have been dropped.

Reds Hammer Astros, 7-1

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson says future opponents better not take Houston lightly despite the Astros' present miseries.

Anderson commented Sunday after the Reds had whipped the Astros 7-1 and extended Houston's losing streak to nine games, one short of the team's all-time record.

"Houston's personnel is too good for this to keep going much longer," Anderson said. "Things are just not going right for them. Somebody is going to pay for all this."

Don Gullett pitched a five-hitter in handing Houston its latest loss. The Reds used a three-run first inning to launch their eighth victory in the last 10 games.

Tony Perez had a home run, a double and a single in leading the Cincinnati attack on Houston starter Dave Roberts and three relievers.

"I felt strong all the way. I had all my pitches going for me," said Gullett who struck out 10 and walked only one in boosting his record to 4-3.

The only run Gullett allowed was Lee May's seventh home run of the season in the fourth inning.

After Roger Metzger led off the first inning with a single, Gullett allowed only a walk to Doug Rader until May hit his two-out homer in the fourth.

The other three Astros' hits were Tommy Helms' single in the fifth, Rader's single in the sixth and Bob Watson's single in the ninth. With the exception of May's homer, Gullett allowed no Houston runner to reach second base.

The Reds jumped on Roberts, 5-5, for three hits and three runs in the first inning. Johnny Bench doubled in Joe Morgan, who had walked, and Bench scored on a passed ball by Houston catcher Cliff Johnson. Singles by Perez and George Foster accounted for another run.

Perez hit his eighth homer in the third, and the Reds picked up two more runs in the sixth on a single by Dan Driessen and Gullett's roller that got by Rader at third. The Reds' final run came in the seventh on consecutive doubles by Perez and Foster.

Gullett said Houston is the kind of team "that can break out any minute." Astros Manager Preston Gomez must be wondering when that minute is going to arrive. Willie McCovey has tied Hank Aaron's record. No, not THAT record. The other one.

Still 305 short of Aaron's career record of 721 home runs, McCovey pulled even with Atlanta's superstar Sunday in the category of career grand slams.

McCovey's 15th bases-loaded homer came in the midst of the San Diego Padres' 10-7, 12-inning victory over San Francisco in the second game of a doubleheader. The Giants won the opener, 8-2.

The home run gave the Padres a temporary 5-3 lead in the fifth inning before a myriad of turns and twists finally settled the four-hour, 19-minute affair.

In Sunday's other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds bombed the Houston Astros 7-1; the Atlanta Braves turned back the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2; the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Chicago Cubs 6-5; the Montreal Expos took a doubleheader from the New York Mets, 7-4 and 5-0 and the Philadelphia Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates split a pair. The Phillies won the first game 3-2 and the Pirates took the second, 2-1.

Braves 4, Dodgers 2

Hank Aaron and Dave Johnson singled home runs in a three-run first inning and Buzz Capra made them stand up with a five-hitter in Atlanta's victory over Los Angeles.

Cardinals 6, Cubs 5

Ted Simmons' eighth-inning double gave St. Louis its victory over Chicago.

Expos 7-5, Mets 4-0

Ken Singleton's tie-breaking double in the fifth inning capped a rally that lifted Montreal over New York in the first game of their doubleheader. Ernie McAnally hurled a fourhitter to give Montreal its second-game victory.

Phillies 3-1, Pirates 2-2

Larry Bowa's two-run double in the eighth inning rallied Philadelphia to victory in the opener, while Jerry Reuss pitched a six-hitter and Willie Stargell doubled home the winning run for Pittsburgh in the nightcap.

Little Current Wins Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Little Current scored a smashing seven-length upset victory in the 99th running of the Preakness Stakes, a race typical of the entire season for 1974's crop of 3-year-old horses.

Before the chestnut colt crossed the finish line Saturday in 1:54 3-5, the third fastest time in Preakness history, Destroyer, Silver Florin, Jolly Johu and Cannonade had held the lead in Pimlico's 1 3-16 mile classic.

Cannonade, the Kentucky Derby winner who was seeking to repeat Secretariat's 1973 feat as a Triple Crown champion, was in front momentarily as the 13 horses entered the stretch.

But Little Current, a 13-1 choice ridden by Miguel Rivera, bolted through a hole along the rail and drew steadily away down the stretch. Neapolitan Way, another longshot at 24-1, overtook Cannonade and finished second. Darby Dan Farm, owned by John W. Galbreath, received $156,500 of the record Preakness purse of $209,000, boosting Little Current's career earnings to $207,192.

It was only the second victory in eight stake races this year for the horse. He won the Everglades at Hialeah on March 20, then finished out of the money in the Flamingo, Blue Grass and Kentucky Derby.

The battle to determine the top 3-year-old probably will remain scrambled into the fall. And, the continuing inconsistency could entice a few owners to enter their horses in the Belmont Stakes, the last of the Triple Crown series on June 8.

Little Current, who was fifth in the Derby, and Cannonade are certain entries for the 1 1/2 mile Belmont. Neapolitan Way will be made a supplementary entry, provided there are no after-effects from the cut suffered Saturday on his left hind leg.

Other probable Belmont starters include Hudson County, the Derby runner-up who finished eighth in the Preakness, and All Game, No. 12 in the Preakness and the only horse to finish ahead of Buck's Bid who tossed jockey Donald MacBeth at the gate.

Another probable is Judger, Cannonade's stablemate, who finished eighth in the Derby as the beaten favorite.

CHS Thinclads Finish 8th In District

The Circleville High School track team finished eighth in the Central District Class AA track meet at Walnut Ridge Saturday.

The Tigers did not qualify anyone for the state meet. The best performance Saturday was Matt McGowan's third place finish in the mile. McGowan was clocked in 4:32.5, a Circleville High School record. Last year a time of 4:38 won the event.

In the 440, Robin Martin was fourth and John Ankrom sixth.

The 880-yard relay team of Frank Plescia, Jim Strawser, Wade Camp and Rick Sampsill was fifth. The mile relay team of Martin, Mike McCoy, Doug Radabaugh and Ankrom was fifth.

Tom England placed fourth in the discus. Reggie Radcliff, who has the school record in the pole vault of 13 feet 3 inches, broke his fiber glass pole warming up Saturday, and could do no better than 12 feet with a borrowed pole, not good enough to place.

CHS Track coach Jim Lint reported that Bloom Carroll High School not only loaned a pole to Radcliff, but sent a boy back to the school where a pole similar to the one used by Radcliff had been left.

The Tigers wrap up their season tonight at the Lancaster Relays.

Anderson Hurls TV Past Dublin

Hard-hitting Teays Valley keyed for another crack this week at league-leading Grandview by knocking off Dublin Friday 5-2.

The Vikings are 8-2 in the Metro League, a game behind the Bobcats. TV plays at West Jefferson tonight.

Teays Valley collected six hits against two Shamrock pitchers. After scoring one run in the first inning and two in the second, starter Townsend was replaced by Ron Termeer, who was charged with the final two runs. They combined to walk five Vikings and struck out four.

Jeff Anderson picked up the win, allowing a run in the first inning and one in the third. He walked one and fanned seven Shamrocks.

Terry Lambert paced the hitting attack with three singles. Norm McPherson and Anderson cracked doubles and Bruce Haines had a single.

Piranha Swim Team Needs Members

Due to a slowdown in the recruiting program of the Circleville "Piranha" Swim Team and new Mt. Pleasant Swim League rules, swim team coaches, Jim Shea and Dick Penn find themselves in need of swimmers for summer competition.

"We can't explain what happened to our recruiting program during the past year or so," head coach Jim Shea said. "But it just hasn't been what we were hoping for. "Andy," the coach said, "with the new rules passed at our recent League meeting, we have got a problem."

New rules call for three swimmers instead of two to swim for points in each of the 52 individual events in a meet, and for two relay teams instead of one to swim for points in each of the 16 relay events.

"While increasing the number of swimmers swimming for points," Shea said, "they have not increased the number of events each individual swimmer may swim which still stands at three individual events and two relays."

"The whole thing adds up to this," he said, "we are nine swimmers short in the girls 8 and under age group, three short in the girls 9-and-10-year-old age group, three short in the boys 9-and-10-year-old age group, four short in the girls 11-and-12-year-old age group, two short in the boys 11-and-12-year-old age group, seven short in the boys 13-and-14-year-old age group, and two short in the boys 15-and-17-year-old age group."

In an effort to beef up the roster the coaches will open up for registration of any swimmer desiring to join the team for this summer.

New swimmers desiring to join the "Piranha" swim team are requested to attend a special meeting with their parents on Friday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m. at the shelter house in the Circleville Swimming Pool area.

Aeros Win World Cup In Hockey

HOUSTON (AP) — Gordie Howe says winning the World Hockey Association's World Cup with his two sons is the thrill of his career and the city's fans agree—it's their first pro championship in 13 years.

Houston's Aeros ended the championship series with a 6-2 victory over the outmanned Chicago Cougars Sunday night to sweep the finals in four straight games and this unlikely hockey city went wild.

The Aeros rammed in three goals in each of the first two periods, with two goals each by Murray Hall and Larry Lund and four assists by Gordie Howe, and then sparred for the final period.

"We're No. 1" and "Goodbye cougars" rang out from the standing room only crowd of 9,874 early in the first period and increased in intensity as the game progressed.

The Aeros in only their second season became Houston's first pro championship team since the Oilers won the American Football League championship Dec. 24, 1961.

Howe, 46, a National Hockey Association Hall of Famer and holder of many NHL records said he'd have to put the World Cup trophy at the top of the list.

GROWERS STACK THESE TWO UP AGAINST ALL THE OTHERS!!

It's true! No other combination of weed killers works better than this one in corn or soybeans grown on variable soils — soils that vary more than 1% to 2% in organic matter in the same field.

Mix them together in the spray tank and get these advantages:

- controls both broadleaves and grasses
- stops spotty weed control
- easy crop rotation . . . if corn fails, replant to soybeans
- easy to mix, easy to apply

Reds Hammer Astros, 7-1

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson says future opponents better not take Houston lightly despite the Astros' present miseries.

Anderson commented Sunday after the Reds had whipped the Astros 7-1 and extended Houston's losing streak to nine games, one short of the team's all-time record.

"Houston's personnel is too good for this to keep going much longer," Anderson said. "Things are just not going right for them. Somebody is going to pay for all this."

Don Gullett pitched a five-hitter in handing Houston its latest loss. The Reds used a three-run first inning to launch their eighth victory in the last 10 games.

Tony Perez had a home run, a double and a single in leading the Cincinnati attack on Houston starter Dave Roberts and three relievers.

"I felt strong all the way. I had all my pitches going for me," said Gullett who struck out 10 and walked only one in boosting his record to 4-3.

The only run Gullett allowed was Lee May's seventh home run of the season in the fourth inning.

After Roger Metzger led off the first inning with a single, Gullett allowed only a walk to Doug Rader until May hit his two-out homer in the fourth.

The other three Astros' hits were Tommy Helms' single in the fifth, Rader's single in the sixth and Bob Watson's single in the ninth. With the exception of May's homer, Gullett allowed no Houston runner to reach second base.

The Reds jumped on Roberts, 5-5, for three hits and three runs in the first inning. Johnny Bench doubled in Joe Morgan, who had walked, and Bench scored on a passed ball by Houston catcher Cliff Johnson. Singles by Perez and George Foster accounted for another run.

Perez hit his eighth homer in the third, and the Reds picked up two more runs in the sixth on a single by Dan Driessen and Gullett's roller that got by Rader at third. The Reds' final run came in the seventh on consecutive doubles by Perez and Foster.

Gullett said Houston is the kind of team "that can break out any minute." Astros Manager Preston Gomez must be wondering when that minute is going to arrive. Willie McCovey has tied Hank Aaron's record. No, not THAT record. The other one.

Still 305 short of Aaron's career record of 721 home runs, McCovey pulled even with Atlanta's superstar Sunday in the category of career grand slams.

McCovey's 15th bases-loaded homer came in the midst of the San Diego Padres' 10-7, 12-inning victory over San Francisco in the second game of a doubleheader. The Giants won the opener, 8-2.

The home run gave the Padres a temporary 5-3 lead in the fifth inning before a myriad of turns and twists finally settled the four-hour, 19-minute affair.

In Sunday's other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds bombed the Houston Astros 7-1; the Atlanta Braves turned back the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2; the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Chicago Cubs 6-5; the Montreal Expos took a doubleheader from the New York Mets, 7-4 and 5-0 and the Philadelphia Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates split a pair. The Phillies won the first game 3-2 and the Pirates took the second, 2-1.

Braves 4, Dodgers 2
Hank Aaron and Dave Johnson singled home runs in a three-run first inning and Buzz Capra made them stand up with a five-hitter in Atlanta's victory over Los Angeles.

Cardinals 6, Cubs 5
Ted Simmons' eighth-inning double gave St. Louis its victory over Chicago.

Expos 7-5, Mets 4-0
Ken Singleton's tie-breaking double in the fifth inning capped a rally that lifted Montreal over New York in the first game of their doubleheader. Ernie McAnally hurled a fourhitter to give Montreal its second-game victory.

Phillies 3-1, Pirates 2-2
Larry Bowa's two-run double in the eighth inning rallied Philadelphia to victory in the opener, while Jerry Reuss pitched a six-hitter and Willie Stargell doubled home the winning run for Pittsburgh in the nightcap.

Little Current Wins Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Little Current scored a smashing seven-length upset victory in the 99th running of the Preakness Stakes, a race typical of the entire season for 1974's crop of 3-year-old horses.

Before the chestnut colt crossed the finish line Saturday in 1:54 3/5, the third fastest time in Preakness history, Destroyer, Silver Florin, Jolly Johu and Cannonade had held the lead in Pimlico's 1 3/16 mile classic.

Cannonade, the Kentucky Derby winner who was seeking to repeat Secretariat's 1973 feat as a Triple Crown champion, was in front momentarily as the 13 horses entered the stretch.

CHS Thinclads Finish 8th In District

The Circleville High School track team finished eighth in the Central District Class AA track meet at Walnut Ridge Saturday.

The Tigers did not qualify anyone for the state meet. The best performance Saturday was Matt McGowan's third place finish in the mile. McGowan was clocked in 4:32.5, a Circleville High School record. Last year a time of 4:38 won the event.

In the 440, Robin Martin was fourth and John Ankrom sixth.

The 880-yard relay team of Frank Plescia, Jim Strawser, Wade Camp and Rick Sampill was fifth. The mile relay team of Martin, Mike McCoy, Doug Radabaugh and Ankrom was fifth.

Tom England placed fourth in the discus. Reggie Radcliff, who has the school record in the pole vault of 13 feet 3 inches, broke his finger glass pole warming up Saturday, and could do no better than 12 feet with a borrowed pole, not good enough to place.

CHS Track coach Jim Lint reported that Bloom Carroll High School not only loaned a pole to Radcliff, but sent a boy back to the school where a pole similar to the one used by Radcliff had been left.

The Tigers wrap up their season tonight at the Lancaster Relays.

Piranha Swim Team Needs Members

Due to a slowdown in the recruiting program of the Circleville "Piranha" Swim Team and new Mt. Pleasant Swim League rules, swim team coaches, Jim Shea and Dick Penn find themselves in need of swimmers for summer competition.

"We can't explain what happened to our recruiting program during the past year or so," head coach Jim Shea said. "But it just hasn't been what we were hoping for. 'Andy,' the coach said, 'with the new rules passed at our recent League meeting, we have got a problem.'"

New rules call for three swimmers instead of two to swim for points in each of the 52 individual events in a meet, and for two relay teams instead of one to swim for points in each of the 16 relay events.

"While increasing the number of swimmers swimming for points," Shea said, "they have not increased the number of events each individual swimmer may swim which still stands at three individual events and two relays."

"The whole thing adds up to this," he said, "we are nine swimmers short in the girls 8 and under age group, three short in the girls 9-and-10-year-old age group, three short in the boys 9-and-10-year-old age group, four short in the girls 11-and-12-year-old age group, two short in the boys 11-and-12-year-old age group, seven short in the boys 13-and-14-year-old age group, and two short in the boys 15-and-17-year-old age group."

In an effort to peer up the roster coaches will open up for registration of any swimmer desiring to join the team for this summer.

New swimmers desiring to join the "Piranha" swim team are requested to attend a special meeting with their parents on Friday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m. at the shelter house in the Circleville Swimming Pool area.

But Little Current, a 13-1 choice ridden by Miguel Rivera, bolted through a hole along the rail and drew steadily away down the stretch. Neapolitan Way, another longshot at 24-1, overtook Cannonade and finished second. Darby Dan Farm, owned by John W. Galbreath, received $156,500 of the record Preakness purse of $209,000, boosting Little Current's career earnings to $207,192.

It was only the second victory in eight stake races this year for the horse. He won the Everglades at Hialeah on March 20, then finished out of the money in the Flamingo, Blue Grass and Kentucky Derby.

The battle to determine the top 3-year-old probably will remain scrambled into the fall. And, the continuing inconsistency could entice a few owners to enter their horses in the Belmont Stakes, the last of the Triple Crown series on June 8.

Little Current, who was fifth in the Derby, and Cannonade are certain entries for the 1 1/2 mile Belmont. Neapolitan Way will be made a supplementary entry, provided there are no after-effects from the cut suffered Saturday on his left hind leg.

Other probable Belmont starters include Hudson County, the Derby runner-up who finished eighth in the Preakness, and All Game, No. 12 in the Preakness and the only horse to finish ahead of Buck's Bid who tossed jockey Donald MacBeth at the gate.

Another probable is Judger, Cannonade's stablemate, who finished eighth in the Derby as the beaten favorite.

Anderson Hurls TV Past Dublin

Hard-hitting Teays Valley keyed for another crack this week at league-leading Grandview by knocking off Dublin Friday 5-2.

The Vikings are 8-2 in the Metro League, a game behind the Bobcats. TV plays at West Jefferson tonight.

Teays Valley collected six hits against two Shamrock pitchers. After scoring one run in the first inning and two in the second, starter Townsend was replaced by Ron Termeer, who was charged with the final two runs. They combined to walk five Vikings and struck out four.

Jeff Anderson picked up the win, allowing a run in the first inning and one in the third. He walked one and fanned seven Shamrocks.

Terry Lambert paced the hitting attack with three singles. Norm McPherson and Anderson cracked doubles and Bruce Haines had a single.

Spurlock Rips Merchants 20-4

John Sharp was the winning pitcher as Spurlock Construction socked the Independent Merchants 20-4 in slow-pitch action Sunday.

Key hitters for the winners were Chuck Jackson with two homers, Mike Ankrim with a round-tripper, John Ramsey with two doubles, Randy Surgoner with a triple, and Mike Gray, Gary Robbins, and Rick Ramsey with a double each.

Aeros Win World Cup In Hockey

HOUSTON (AP) — Gordie Howe says winning the World Hockey Association's World Cup with his two sons is the thrill of his career and the city's fans agree—it's their first pro championship in 13 years.

Houston's Aeros ended the championship series with a 6-2 victory over the outmanned Chicago Cougars Sunday night to sweep the finals in four straight games and this unlikely hockey city went wild.

The Aeros rammed in three goals in each of the first two periods, with two goals each by Murray Hall and Larry Lund and four assists by Gordie Howe, and then sparred for the final period.

"We're No. 1" and "Goodbye cougars" rang out from the standing room only crowd of 9,874 early in the first period and increased in intensity as the game progressed.

Rod Curl Winner Of Colonial Open With Smashing 276

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Champagne glass in hand and lustily toasting his first triumph on the professional golf tour, Rod Curl, a Wintu Indian, announced: "My Indian name is now Yoso. It means Johnny Jump-up or Johnny-Come-From-Behind. My Mother named me. It took her 31 years to do it, but she finally did it."

And jump up he did, overtaking Chuck Courtney and withstanding the wind, the heat and the challenge of Jack Nicklaus to capture the $50,000 top prize Sunday in the $250,000 Colonial National Open.

The former California ditchdigger tamed Colonial's testy par-70 course with a closing 68 for a four-round total of 276, four-under-par and a stroke ahead of Nicklaus, who also wound up with a 68.

"I'll tell you something," Curl said with a grin, "and you ain't gonna believe it. But I dreamed last night that I would beat Nicklaus by a shot ... that's every golfer's dream. I'm just happy to beat the best golfer in the world on one of the best golf courses in the world."

Nicklaus, whose bid crumbled with a bogey at the par four, 17th hole, earned second place money of $28,500 with a 12-foot birdie putt at the final hole and said of Curl: "He never made any mistakes. He just kept right on playing ... I was aware of his position ... but I thought I might sneak in there. The turning point for me was the 17th."

Courtney, who led Curl by two strokes and Nicklaus by one as the final round unfurled, shot a closing 72 and finished at 278 for third and $17,750.

Julius Boros and Lee Trevino also had closing 68s with Boros taking fourth at 279 and Trevino fifth at 280. Gary Player wound up at 282 with a par 70.

It was somewhat ironic that Curl, a nondesignated player, would win the first of the controversial new "super" tournaments which require all the big names to compete.

Courtney lost a shot to par at the 16th and fell out of contention. Then Nicklaus, with a poor drive, a poor lie and a poor approach shot, dropped back with a bogey at No. 17.

Protests May Reopen Indy 500 Qualifiers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A.J. Foyt is on the pole, the field is completed and all appears ready for Sunday's 58th running of the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race ... but it might not be so.

Saturday, Foyt sat and watched 11 futile efforts to overtake his qualifying speed of 191.632 miles per hour, set May at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The 39-year-old Texan will be a strong sentimental favorite to win at Indy for an unprecedented fourth time.

Saturday's final session of time trials was marred by a rain delay of three hours and 37 minutes, but the final 18 spots in the starting field were filled and the day's two slowest cars were bumped from the lineup.

Action also developed after 6 p.m. qualifications ended. The Speedway reportedly was considering a proposal that an unprecedented 12th row of three cars be added to the starting lineup and the protesting group was considering legal action if a compromise was not worked out. After the trials closed, owners, drivers and team representatives from nine of 11 cars waiting in line to qualify rushed Speedway officials and demanded a chance to take their four-lap, 10-mile trial runs.

A protest was filed with Speedway stewards on behalf of the nine cars and was rejected. The protesting group said the Speedway's entry form promised each driver at least one chance to qualify and they said they had been denied that.

Speedway officials said the rules had been adhered to, and that reopening qualifications would not be fair to the 33 drivers who had qualified and the two knocked from the lineup by faster drivers.

Then, the protesting group was told by Speedway officials the matter could be reconsidered if they could get signed affidavits from a representative of each of the cars in the starting field and the two alternates which would free the Speedway from possible legal action if trials were resumed.

At the request of the parties involved, the deadline for getting those affidavits to Speedway officials was extended from 11 a.m. Sunday to noon today.

By Sunday afternoon, the group—now down to six cars—said it had 13 signed affidavits and verbal agreement from a representative of each of the 33 starters except the slowest driver in the field, rookie Larry Cannon.

Cannon, who missed out under similar circumstances last year, said he would not sign. But the protesting group remained hopeful.

Wright Huges Jr., an attorney and an associate in one of the racing teams involved, then took a proposal to Speedway Vice President Joe Cloutier that would add a 12th row to the field.

Under the proposal, the two alternate cars—driven by Jigger Sirois and Denny Zimmerman—automatically would be put in the 12th row and the other spot would go up for grabs among the six entries Huges represented.

Huges said that if an agreement could not be reached, "at 12:01, we could go to the federal district court for an injunction against the race. We could file a class action suit involving all the cars not yet qualified."

"But that is just one of a number of remedies (to the situation)," Huges added, "and I hope it doesn't come to that."

The only driver to come close to Foyt during the qualifying runs was Johnny Rutherford, who drove his Offenhauser-powered McLaren to an average speed of 190.446 m.p.h. But Rutherford will start on the inside of the ninth row because he lost his chance to qualify in the first session when a blown engine kept him from getting into line before the deadline that day.

Mike Hiss, 1972 Indy Rookie of the Year, won the best position among Saturday's qualifiers with an average speed of 187.490 m.p.h. First-day qualifier Wally Dallenbach is in the middle of the front row with a 189.683 clocking.

Among the other Saturday qualifiers were defending champion Gordon Johncock, 1969 winner Mario Andretti, defending national driving champion

Roger McCluskey, twotime Indy winner Al Unser, and comeback-minded Salt Walther.

Johncock, whose car was approved by USAC officials after being impounded for several hours to test the legality of the turbocharger, and Andretti made it into the second row beside Mike Mosley.

McCluskey and Unser joined Rutherford in row nine, Walther—critically burned last May in an abortive start at the Speedway—qualified in the middle of row five.

Other veterans qualifying in the final session were Jerry Karl, Dick Simon, John Martin, Rick Muther, Bob Harkey, Jim Hurtubise and Jim McElreath.

Rookies Jan Opperman, Tom Bigelow, Johnny Parsons and Cannon also made it into the field.

Iowa, Minnesota Tied

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Iowa and Minnesota both got a chance to play over the rainshortened weekend but neither could take charge of matters and the two teams had to settle for a tie in the Big Ten baseball race.

Both finished with 11-5 records but Minnesota, which won the title last year, will represent the Big Ten in the NCAA District 4 tournament because the Gophers outscored the Hawkeyes 11-6 when they split their two-game series earlier in the season.

Rangers, Indians Post Victories

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

In recent years, baseball has been just a spring sport for fans in Texas and Cleveland. Late May is normally the time when the Rangers and Indians settle into their respective American League cellars and the fans' fancy turns to football.

This year may be different.

If the Rangers and Indians continue their turnabout in good play, the baseball seasons in Texas and Cleveland could stretch into at least ... the summer.

"We're not the patsies we used to be," said Texas Manager Billy Martin after the Rangers pounded the Kansas City Royals 8-3 Sunday.

"The crowd was fantastic," said Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte, referring to 49,419 fans who saw the Indians beat the Detroit Tigers 2-1 and 9-4.

Elsewhere in the American League, the California Angels beat the Minnesota Twins in the opener 4-2, then lost 4-2 in the second game; the Boston Red Sox won a pair from the Baltimore Orioles 11-2 and 6-4; the New York Yankees tripped the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2 before dropping the nightcap 3-1, and the Oakland A's downed the Chicago White Sox 8-3.

The Rangers find themselves in third place with a 19-19 record, only one game in back of front-running Chicago.

Jackie Brown, 1-1, pitched five strong innings in relief of David Clyde, allowing one run on four hits. Steve Foucault kept the Royals hitless for the last 1-3 innings.

The Rangers were the only team to post a worse American League record than the Indians last year. Cleveland finished with a 71-91 record, 26 games behind first-place Baltimore.

In the opener, Gaylord Perry picked up his sixth straight win. The Indians staked Bob Johnson to a little more offensive help in the second game, building an 8-2 lead after five innings. Angels 4-2, Twins 2-4.

Jim Holt broke out of season-long slump with four hits in the second game, helping Minnesota gain a doubleheader split. In the opener, Bobby Valentine's run-scoring single triggered a four-run rally to give California and Nolan Ryan the victory.

Yankees 6-1, Brewers 2-3

John Briggs' two-run homer in the sixth inning powered Milwaukee to the split. Earlier, Lou Piniella's three-run double capped a four-run uprising to give New York to an opening game win.

Red Sox 11-6, Orioles 2-4

Carlton Fisk walloped a two-run homer in the ninth inning, carrying Boston to a doubleheader sweep over Baltimore.

In the nightcap, the Red Sox pounded loser Dave McNally, and Don Hood for 17 hits.

A's 7, White Sox 3

Angel Manguel blasted a grand-slam homer to help Oakland past Chicago. Jim "Catfish" Hunter stifled the White Sox on four hits before giving way to Paul Lindblad in the eighth. Lindblad gave up Chicago's runs on Brian Downing's three-run homer in the ninth.

Minnesota Vikings Vice President Quits

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Jim Finks, executive vice president and general manager of the Minnesota Vikings, has resigned.

Finks, 47, did so Thursday and reaffirmed his decision Saturday at a Vikings board of directors meeting, it was learned Sunday night.

"I feel this decision is in the best interests of my future and my family's future," said Finks, who took over as Vikings general manager Sept. 10, 1964. "And I really feel it's going to be in the best interests of the Vikings."

Flyers Win Stanley Cup; Defeat Bruins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia has ceased to be a bad sports joke. The implausible Philadelphia Flyers are champions of the National Hockey League, owners of the biggest prize in hockey—the Stanley Cup.

The Flyers, only seven years old, became the first expansion team to win the storied Cup, and their amazing drive to the title surprised even their coach. They completed the job Sunday with a 1-0 victory over the mighty Boston Bruins.

"If someone asked me at the beginning of the season, if I thought this team would win the Stanley Cup, I'd have said they were crazy," said weary Flyers Coach Fred Shero. "I wasn't even thinking of first place. I didn't think this team would work this hard."

The tough, young Flyers closed out the Bruins on national television, 4-2, in the best-of-seven game series. Rick MacLeish tipped in the only goal of the game at 14:48 of the first period off a drive from just inside the blue line by Andre Dupont.

"I have been around a long time," said Shero, "long enough to know that this is a team that may never be duplicated. They gave you all you asked for, and if you wanted more they came up with it."

Shero was trying to say that the Flyers don't have the talent of the New York Rangers, who they eliminated 4-3 in the semifinals, and aren't in a class personnel-wise with Boston. They won because they were the hungriest team in the playoffs.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my Son,
William R. Miller, who passed away
May 20th, 1968.
To some he is forgotten.
To others a part of the past,
But to me who loved him,
His memory forever will last.
Sadly missed by mother,
Etta Miller.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A good period. Augment your program with something special, out-of-the ordinary. Trump competition's move with quiet, tactful skill.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Some situations may be getting out of hand. This is the time to use your wits and clear up matters insofar as you are personally concerned.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): With your innate ingenuity, you will probably discover more than one novel way of meeting this day's demands. Others are competing for identical goals. Push on!

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A top day for displaying your canny sense of timing and ability to cut red tape from your schedule. Some new opportunities in the offing.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): What you say and do now could have more far-reaching effects than you realize, so mark time, think things over before acting. No impulsiveness!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Do not by-pass new opportunities because you are wrapped up in current interests. It will be wise to keep a weather-eye open.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Independence of thought and action should be stressed, but don't arbitrarily reject unusual ideas. A different viewpoint could give your effects new direction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Avoid that far-out limb which has never been tested for strength nor offers good reason for examination. What fascinates is not always worth going after.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): A favorable day for routine affairs, but care needed in financial matters. Don't speculate or gamble in any way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Job matters are likely to conflict with personal desires, but accept the situation for the present. It will pay off later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): An original twist or a new method could brighten routine, but don't go to extremes or attempt the bizarre.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A pick-up, a brighter set of stimulating influences. Yet there goes with this (as with Aquarius) and admonition to avoid extremes, to curb emotions.

YOU BORN TODAY, as Taurus-Gemini cuspal (one born at the change of Signs), are highly competent, extremely versatile and the possessor of a most engaging personality. Always "on your toes" mentally, you never pass up an opportunity, and your enthusiasm for accomplishment is rarely dimmed. Thus you usually achieve eminently high plateaus of success while others are still dawdling along and indulging in wishful thinking. You have a great love of knowledge and a lively curiosity which usually attracts you to the extraordinary in life. Many scientists, writers, musicians, architects, inventors and physicians have been born in this zodiacal sector. Birthdate of: Alexander Poe, Eng. poet.

Indiana Victorious In Big Ten Meet

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Indiana has done to Big Ten track what it usually reserves for conference swimming: The Hoosiers mopped up an easy victory, and now turn their attention to this season's NCAA meet. Coach Sam Bell promised his squad would be "a factor" in national competition next month, citing teamwork as the key to Indiana's thinclad success last Saturday. Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Public and commercial broadcasters are waiting with bated breaths, microphones and cameras to learn when the House impeachment hearings go public. But it's doubtful this will be the week. The CBS, NBC and ABC television networks initially thought this Tuesday would be the day. Then they hoped for Thursday. Now they simply are waiting and making no forecasts. But when the House hearings are opened to the public, they'll be offered in full or in part to the nation's 2,689 network or public radio stations and at least 844 public or network-affiliated TV stations.

Here's the way it'll work when the open sessions begin: The networks, serving a total of 610 commercial TV stations, say they'll still rotate live coverage responsibility among themselves, with ABC covering the first day, CBS the second and NBC the third. In addition, CBS-TV says when developments warrant, it will air half-hour or hour-long summary reports at 11:30 p.m. EDT on those days it hasn't the primary live coverage responsibility. NBC-TV says it's considering a similar approach but nothing is definite yet. ABC-TV says it has tentative plans for primetime summary reports when it feels hearing developments warrant them. The Public Broadcasting Service, serving 234 TV stations, says it won't go "live," but will videotape each day's public hearings in full and offer it the same night at 8 p.m. EDT.

On the radio side, only CBS with 245 stations, and the National Public Radio system, with 164 outlets, say they'll carry the hearings live. CBS will interrupt its coverage for its regular hourly news broadcasts. NBC, serving 230 radio stations, and ABC, serving 1,400, both say they'll offer brief special reports during the day, but won't go live except when they feel circumstances demand it. NBC says it'll also offer a special 3½-minute wrapup on the hearings at 5:45 p.m. EDT and again an hour later if necessary. The Mutual Broadcasting System says it won't offer live coverage, opting to put hearing developments in its regular news feeds to its 650 affiliates. It says it'll also offer them a nine-minute special hearings report at 2:15 p.m. EDT and a 14-minute report at 5:35 p.m. EDT.

New Orlando Franchise Faces Problems

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — "In the words of Hollywood, this is stupendous, colossal and fantastic," Orlando Mayor Carl Langford said upon learning his city has gained a World Football League franchise. Yet with no name, no name players and less than two months until the first game, the team's biggest job may be attracting fans.

Giscard D'Estaing Posts Narrow Win In French Election

PARIS (AP) — Conservative Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, for years the strict finance minister in France's Gaullist governments, has become the republic's 20th president in an election that could reduce friction between Paris and Washington.

Latest official figures gave Giscard d'Estaing a lead of only 371,814 votes out of more than 87 per cent of the registered voters in the largest turnout ever in a French election.

Interior Minister Jacques Chirac declared Giscard d'Estaing elected Sunday night with 50.71 per cent of the vote, 1.5 per cent more than that Socialist Francois Mitterrand received. Foreign policy played almost no role in the free-wheeling, six-week election campaign.

But the first foreign notable to congratulate the new president was President Nixon in a protocol-breaking personal telephone call, which French newspapers viewed as an omen of an easing in prickly relations between the two nations.

Giscard d'Estaing has promised to make technical suggestions soon on European monetary problems and work towards eventual European unity in 1980.

The election mainly on France's severe economic problems, and also reflected apparent voter discontent with 16 years of Gaullist rule that ended with the death on April 2 of President Georges Pompidou. Giscard d'Estaing and Mitterrand eliminated the official Gaullist candidate, Jacques Chaban-Delmas, in balloting May 5.

Giscard d'Estaing still will have to rely on what now appears to be a disproportionately large Gaullist bloc in the lower house of the National Assembly to support his government.

The 48-year-old president-elect heads the Independent Republican party, junior partner of the Gaullists in the governing coalition since Gen. Charles de Gaulle founded the Fifth Republic and became its president in 1958.

during the campaign and pledged to newsmen Sunday, while awaiting vote tabulations, that his government would provide startling changes.

Constitutionally, the formal proclamation of his election can take place at any time in the next 10 days. It is expected late this week, after which Giscard d'Estaing will name his prime minister to replace the caretaker prime minister, Pierre Messmer.

As the tight result was announced, leaders of all groups which supported Giscard d'Estaing warned that he must take into account that almost one Frenchman in two voted for the Socialist candidate, who had promised sweeping reforms and Communists in the government.

Opposition figures made a point of stressing their acceptance of the democratic process in conceding Giscard's victory.

Leftist leaders noted that Mitterrand drew converts to their cause, winning 4 per cent more votes than the total leftist vote in the first round.

Unions and extreme leftists indicated, however, that their patience would be very limited. Georges Seguy, Communist head of the largest union group, said his organization was ready to negotiate with government and management for "essential social demands" but that if these were not met "union action will force them to be."

Nation's 'Duck Cops' Concerned With Big Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old Duck Cop of the Fish and Wildlife Service is turning into a sort of environmental G-Man.

Instead of big heroin or 10-most-wanted busts, the big case around the service's Law Enforcement Division is likely to be seizure of a cheetah-fur coat or a shipment of hawksbill turtle shell hair clips.

That's because the main beat for the division's 220 special agents is policing the endangered species list—and agents believe their beat is starting to involve organized crime.

The traffic in illicit fur, shell and feather from species on the lengthy list is approaching dope-scale profits.

A single eagle tail feather is worth $50. A tiger skin coat recently was valued at $80,000. A pair of Nile crocodile shoes is worth $125, and a live prairie falcon can be worth $10,000 to a falconry buff, the service says.

The division's stepped-up effort, says Director Clark Bavan, "has been necessary in part to focus on the large-scale traffickers and smugglers of wildlife."

The attraction for organized crime—besides the money—is the lesser risk, along with the comparatively light penalties Congress provided in its endangered species laws, Bertram Falbaum, division deputy director, says.

"If you can get $50,000, $100,000, $200,000, dealing in misdemeanor instead of felony crimes, why not?" says Falbaum. "We're convinced organized crime is involved."

To get on with its new responsibilities, the division is recruiting a mix of ex-FBI, Customs Bureau, police and military intelligence men. Falbaum used to run Customs' Operation Intercept against narcotics traffic on the West Coast.

In the old days, the division was heavy with biologists and game warden-types who banded ducks and stalked hunters who shot more than their limit—thus the tag, Duck Cops.

But in recent years Congress has tightened up several species protection laws and added new ones, giving the added enforcement tasks to the division.

So far the service has confiscated goods worth $2 million by its estimate. The haul includes one stuffed Andean condor, 20,000 cans of sperm whale meat and 1,200 pairs of Nile crocodile shoes. Some 1,400 live alligator-like caimans are cooling it in a zoo until a division case against their shippers is settled.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association has issued sanctions against the Mentor School District in a local teachers' dispute. The OEA accused the board of bad faith negotiating and of cutting back educational programs and teaching staffs.

The sanctions serve to notify teachers associations across the state that Mentor is an "undesirable place to teach," the OEA said in a statement issued Saturday.

"Conservation is important today, as the nation faces an energy crisis. Help fight waste of our vital resources right in your own kitchen by using these gas-saving cooking tips . . . and save money, too. I encourage you to start now to do your share."

Betty Newton

The instant-on, instant-off control of your gas range means less wasted heat before and after cooking, and just naturally saves gas and money. Cooking seldom requires a high flame for very long. Use a low one when it will do just as well.

When cooking vegetables, use as little water as possible and cover the pan to speed cooking.

While you can use almost any type pan or pot on a gas range, those with flat, smooth bottoms cook faster with less chance of burning the food inside.

Pre-heat your oven only when it's necessary. And when you do, five or ten minutes is all it takes. Setting the temperature higher than you want won't pre-heat the oven any faster.

Opening the oven door loses heat and wastes gas and money. Make good use of your timer or oven window to avoid opening the oven door too frequently.

Good maintenance, including periodic cleaning, assures more economical and efficient operation. Proper adjustment of burners to a blue flame is an important maintenance check. Clean burner ports is another. Your gas range manual has complete instructions.

New Gas Range

If you're thinking of replacing your old gas range now, remember that you needn't worry about your home gas supply. A new, modern gas range helps conserve gas because it's more efficient. It offers automatic controls, better insulation and other gas-saving features.

Giscard D'Estaing Posts Narrow Win In French Election

PARIS (AP) — Conservative Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, for years the strict finance minister in France's Gaullist governments, has become the republic's 20th president in an election that could reduce friction between Paris and Washington.

Latest official figures gave Giscard d'Estaing a lead of only 371,814 votes out of more than 87 per cent of the registered voters in the largest turnout ever in a French election.

Interior Minister Jacques Chirac declared Giscard d'Estaing elected Sunday night with 50.71 per cent of the vote, 1.5 per cent more than that Socialist Francois Mitterrand received. Foreign policy played almost no role in the free-wheeling, six-week election campaign.

But the first foreign notable to congratulate the new president was President Nixon in a protocol-breaking personal telephone call, which French newspapers viewed as an omen of an easing in prickly relations between the two nations.

Giscard d'Estaing has promised to make technical suggestions soon on European monetary problems and work towards eventual European unity in 1980.

The election mainly on France's severe economic problems, and also reflected apparent voter discontent with 16 years of Gaullist rule that ended with the death on April 2 of President Georges Pompidou. Giscard d'Estaing and Mitterrand eliminated the official Gaullist candidate, Jacques Chaban-Delmas, in balloting May 5.

Giscard d'Estaing still will have to rely on what now appears to be a disproportionately large Gaullist bloc in the lower house of the National Assembly to support his government.

The 48-year-old president-elect heads the Independent Republican party, junior partner of the Gaullists in the governing coalition since Gen. Charles de Gaulle founded the Fifth Republic and became its president in 1958.

during the campaign and pledged to newsmen Sunday, while awaiting vote tabulations, that his government would provide startling changes.

Constitutionally, the formal proclamation of his election can take place at any time in the next 10 days. It is expected late this week, after which Giscard d'Estaing will name his prime minister to replace the caretaker prime minister, Pierre Messmer.

As the tight result was announced, leaders of all groups which supported Giscard d'Estaing warned that he must take into account that almost one Frenchman in two voted for the Socialist candidate, who had promised sweeping reforms and Communists in the government.

Opposition figures made a point of stressing their acceptance of the democratic process in conceding Giscard's victory.

Leftist leaders noted that Mitterrand drew converts to their cause, winning 4 per cent more votes than the total leftist vote in the first round.

Unions and extreme leftists indicated, however, that their patience would be very limited. Georges Seguy, Communist head of the largest union group, said his organization was ready to negotiate with government and management for "essential social demands" but that if these were not met "union action will force them to be."

Nation's 'Duck Cops' Concerned With Big Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old Duck Cop of the Fish and Wildlife Service is turning into a sort of environmental G-Man.

Instead of big heroin or 10-most-wanted busts, the big case around the service's Law Enforcement Division is likely to be seizure of a cheetah-fur coat or a shipment of hawksbill turtle shell hair clips.

That's because the main beat for the division's 220 special agents is policing the endangered species list—and agents believe their beat is starting to involve organized crime.

The traffic in illicit fur, shell and feather from species on the lengthy list is approaching dope-scale profits.

A single eagle tail feather is worth $50. A tiger skin coat recently was valued at $80,000. A pair of Nile crocodile shoes is worth $125, and a live peregrine falcon can be worth $10,000 to a falconry buff, the service says.

The division's stepped-up effort, says Director Clark Bavan, "has been necessary in part to focus on the large-scale traffickers and smugglers of wildlife."

The attraction for organized crime—besides the money—is the lesser risk, along with the comparatively light penalties Congress provided in its endangered species laws, Bertram Falbaum, division deputy director, says.

"If you can get $50,000, $100,000, $200,000, dealing in misdemeanor instead of felony crimes, why not?" says Falbaum. "We're convinced organized crime is involved."

To get on with its new responsibilities, the division is recruiting a mix of ex-FBI, Customs Bureau, police and military intelligence men. Falbaum used to run Customs' Operation Intercept against narcotics traffic on the West Coast.

In the old days, the division was heavy with biologists and game warden-types who banded ducks and stalked hunters who shot more than their limit—thus the tag, Duck Cops.

But in recent years Congress has tightened up several species protection laws and added new ones, giving the added enforcement tasks to the division.

So far the service has confiscated goods worth $2 million by its estimate. The haul includes one stuffed Andean condor, 20,000 cans of sperm whale meat and 1,200 pairs of Nile crocodile shoes. Some 1,400 live alligator-like caimans are cooling it in a zoo until a division case against their shippers is settled.

Issue Sanctions Against District

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association has issued sanctions against the Mentor School District in a local teachers' dispute.

The OEA accused the board of bad faith negotiating and of cutting back educational programs and teaching staffs.

The sanctions serve to notify teachers associations across the state that Mentor is an "undesirable place to teach," the OEA said in a statement issued Saturday.

NOW! SEE THE FRESHNESS FOR YOURSELF

Consumers rightly expect the foods they buy to be fresh and good. That's why Kroger pamperers and protects and rushes the foods we sell to stores at their peak of freshness.

Because we do take such care, Kroger is confident of the freshness of the foods we sell. That's why we can guarantee them on a replacement or money-back basis.

And that is why we open date foods for freshness. Some 1900 foods sold by Kroger now carry an open date ... easy-to-read, such as AUG 30 ... to let you know the last day a product will be sold so it will stay fresh for an average usage period (or longer) after you buy it and carry it home.

Kroger open-dates a wide variety of foods - everything from milk, eggs and bread to many items other grocers don't open-date, such as jelly, snack crackers and peanut butter. And we also include prepackaged fresh fruits and vegetables and fresh meats. They all carry the freshness date so you can see for yourself how fresh they are.

At Kroger, we believe that consumers have the right to know more about the foods they buy. We're open-dating more foods than just about anybody else in the country. This is one more Kroger service designed to help you - the consumer.
